U. S. BOMBERS STRIKE MUNICH IN FORCE TODAY

500 to 750 Big Planes with Strong Escort Fly from Fields in Italy.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 9 — U. S. heavy bombers striking from the south [illegible] 750 strong battered prime targets in the Munich area of southern Germany today, in a new major attack on the Nazi war machine coordinated with disruptive blows on German positions in France from the west.

The bombers, flying into the Munich area for the first time from Italy, and their escorting fighters, Mustangs and Thunderbolts fought through clouds of German fighters to reach their targets.

Early dispatches reported explosions in the Munich and Augsburg areas.

An RBC broadcast said the Allied bombardment from Britain had destroyed all railway bridges on the Seine river between Paris and the sea.

For the first time since D-day official reports however, made no mention of Allied air-borne operations last night.

During operations of the past 24 hours 52 German planes were destroyed in the air and 20 others accounted for on the ground, as against an allied loss of 35 fighters and five bombers.

Weather cut down the scope of the aerial operations supporting the invasion troops.

Nazi Planes Driven Off

German made four fighter-bomber attacks against the invasion beaches between early yesterday morning and late last night, employing some 60 planes, but were driven off each time.

The first three attacks were handled by RAF Spitfires, which shot down three German planes and damaged more without loss. The last attack cost the Germans seven planes, again with no loss to the allies.

Several hundred RAF heavy bombers, flying through rain and thick clouds, hit the switching yards and rail junctions at Rennes, Fougeres, Alencon, Mayenne and Portaubault last night. These lie south and west of the Normandy fighting front. Two of the heavy bombers are missing from these operations.

An air ministry announcement said poor flying weather appeared

Part-Time Workers Sought in Marion for Farm Jobs

A pool of city workers willing to work four hours a day on a split-shift basis on the farms of Marion county to help farmers over the humps in their peak-work seasons this summer is the goal of a drive being launched today.

The county farm agent's office, where requests for part-time helpers are pouring in, and the agriculture committees of the Kiwanis club and Chamber of Commerce, have joined forces to seek recruits, most of whom are expected to come from Marion factories.

Only by getting half a day's work from a number of factory employes after their regular day's work is finished can farmers hope to get some of the peak-season work done, Arthur Smith, county farm agent, said.

One of the first busy seasons will come next month when it is time to de-tassel corn being grown to produce hybrid corn seed. A score or more of part-time workers could be of tremendous help at that time, and there will be other periods when help will be needed just as urgently, Mr. Smith said.

He and Marion Clark, chairman of the Kiwanis club agriculture committee and a member of the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee, emphasized that the workers will be paid for their part-time farm work, but both said they hoped persons would respond for patriotic reasons as well as for the extra money the work would bring in. The Food for Freedom program will need home-front volunteers if it is to be a success, they emphasized.

Persons interested in farm work, either on a full time or part-time basis are being urged to register at the county farm agent's office in the basement of the postoffice

Shovel Co. War Bond Rally Set

Employes To Hold First Meeting of 5th Loan Drive Tonight.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. will get a head start on the Fifth War Loan drive beginning throughout the nation Monday night when it holds a rally for all employes in The Star auditorium tonight at 7:30.

A fast-moving program has been arranged by the company's war bond committee. It includes numbers by the Steam Shovel Chorus, a talk by Chester C. Roberts, a talk by a wounded veteran and the showing of a movie, "The Lifeline," emphasling the importance of home front support of the war effort.

E. L. Cleveland is chairman of the company's bond committee and others on the group are R. L. Cope, Jay Marks, Ed Schott, Percy Breece and Glen Heffelfinger. Along with other large concerns using the payroll savings plan for regular purchase of war bonds, the company's committee will center its drive efforts on urging workers to have extra deductions made for war bond purchases during the Fifth War Loan.

Meanwhile, other phases of the Fifth War Loan program were taking shape rapidly. A. J. Loudenslager, chairman of the rural division, reported today his organization of township chairmen is virtually complete, and he spoke with pride of the fact that most of his chairmen, held over from previous campaigns, were "waiting on me" when he made calls to arrange for rural canvassing.

"It really means something when these men, who are terribly busy with their own farm work now, are actually waiting on you and are ready to start work without having been contacted before," he said. "I'm confident we'll be able to do our full share in the Fifth War Loan."

In the city, war meetings of workers and other smaller group meetings were being held in preparation for the Monday night rally in The Star auditorium for all war loan workers. The rally will be at 8:15 for urban and rural workers alike. It will mark the formal start of the campaign in Marion county.

ENTIRE ITALIAN FRONT GAINS

Germans Start Withdrawal on Eighth Army Sector To Avert Encirclement.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 9—German forces guarding the Adriatic sector have started to retreat to avoid encirclement, and for the first time launching their offensive nearly a month ago Allied troops rolled forward today along the entire Italian front.

Striving to maintain close contact with the fleeing enemy, who has shown no disposition as yet to make a determined stand, the Allied Fifth army raced steadily north and northwest from Rome.

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's columns, driving north from the capital, occupied the entire Lake Bracciano area and moved on to capture Caprarola, 34 miles north of Rome on the east side of Lake Di Vico and about 10 miles southeast of the highway junction town of Viterbo.

To the northwest Allied units racing on from Civitavecchia were reported by front line dispatches to be shelling Tarquinia, 55 airline miles from Rome and about three miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast.

Troops from Denmark

An Allied spokesman said that among prisoners taken in the Lake Bracciano area were Nazis from the 20th German Luftwaffe field division.

CAPT. R. F. M'CARTY MISSING IN ACTION

Husband of Marion Woman Fails To Return from Raid.

A telegram received early today from the War Department notified Mrs Jean Knapp McCarty that her husband, Capt. Robert F. McCarty of the U. S. Air Force was missing in action since May 25, over France.

Capt. McCarty, whose 27th birthday anniversary was last Monday, had been in service since January 1942, and had been flying a B-17 in the Italian combat area since April 20 this year. He went overseas the latter part of February this year and before going into the European battle area was stationed in Africa. He was commissioned a second lieutenant on July 22, 1942, at Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz., and on the same day his marriage to Miss Knapp took place.

He took his primary and basic training at Cal Aero Field, Ontario, Calif., and after receiving his commission was an instructor in B-25 at the Army Air Base at Greenville, S. C. Later he went to Pocatello, Ida., where he was an operations officer in four-engine bombers.

He was here in August last year when he was stationed for a short time at Lockbourne Field in Columbus for B-17 instruction. Mrs. McCarty, who was with her husband while he was stationed in the states, came to Marion last February and is making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs.

MARION SEAMAN REPORTED MISSING

Parents of Carl N. Burdett Receive Notice.

Carl Nelson Burdett, gunner's mate third class has been reported missing in action, following the performance of duty, according to a telegram received from the Navy Department Wednesday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson O. Burdett of 500 Thompson street.

Gunner's mate Nelson, who will be 19 on July 7, entered the service on April 23, 1943. He received his training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, where he was in the first class to complete a 16-week course in Gunners School in 12 weeks. From Great Lakes he went to Norfolk, Va., and later to a station in the Atlantic area.

His parents last heard from him two weeks ago when they received a letter sent May 13. He was last home on leave Feb. 7. Before entering the service, he was employed at the McDaniel Motor Co.

He has two sisters, Mrs. Clifford Murphey of Mt. Gilead and Mrs. Nelson Maidlow of 555 Mound street.

AP MAN SEES YANKS SMASH OUTER DEFENSE

Beachhead Battle Now a Race To Get Enough Men and Equipment Ashore.

By DON WHITEHEAD
AP War Correspondent

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, June 8—(Delayed)—Fighting as American troops did in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy, doughboys have smashed through the outer crust of Hitler's fortress in a gallant display of courage and skill.

The battle of the beachhead has developed now into a race to get enough doughboys, guns and supplies ashore to beat back the enemy attack and it looks as if we are winning.

Never before has an Army attempted to land such vast numbers of men and materials in such a short time, but the job is being done after a shaky start.

When we landed behind the assault troops the enemy still was pouring a heavy machine-gun, mortar and artillery fire into the boats as they drove ashore and had our troops pinned behind a gravel bank.

Supplies Pile Up

Troops, supplies and vehicles began to pile up on the beach at an alarming rate. The enemy controlled the exits with accurate fire and the time schedule was being disrupted.

But under the urging of a soft-spoken brigadier general the organized enemy positions were silenced and the great surge inland began.

In a matter of a few hours the engineers had roads built from the beach and the heavy stuff was pouring across.

The Army's communication system for correspondents accompanying American troops broke down completely and for more than 28 hours were were unable to get news out.

We were even more bitterly disappointed when we turned on the radio and heard a BBC report from British correspondents accompanying British troops.

Germans on Maneuvers

One unforeseen difficulty here was that three fresh regiments of German infantry moved into the beach area just before the landing for anti-invasion maneuvers. They were sitting in their positions when the armada arrived offshore.

Along the beaches were underwater barriers, barbed wire, emplacements, concrete houses with 88 mm. guns covering the beach approaches. The walls of the houses were of reinforced concrete four to six feet thick.

The prisoners coming back to the rear look rather small and scrawny. They look with wonder at the bigger and stronger American boys and their fine equipment.

During the night German snipers infiltrated our lines and made life uncomfortable. The troops were wet from wading through the surf and the bedding of most troops was lost in vehicles swamped on the beach.

Finds No Evidence of Atlantic Wall

Roger Greene of The Associated Press war one of the first war correspondents to hit the beach in the invasion of France.

By ROGER GREENE

WITH THE ALLIES IN FRANCE, June 6—(Delayed)—As far as we could see after advancing five miles inland, Hitler's vaunted "Atlantic Wall" is a myth. The thickest barrier I have seen is a crumbling old brick wall, two feet thick, along an apple orchard where I am sitting deep in the grass writing this story.

The crackle of rifle fire some 500 yards away is intense, and every few minutes we throw ourselves flat and try to squeeze our whole bodies under our battle helmets as German shells burst in the orchard nearby.

The Heinies seem to have our range, and we will be moving on soon.

Aside from scattered pillboxes, barbed wire and slit trenches, the German static defenses so far have been practically nil, and in this sector at least we have seen nothing of the great concrete fortifications 12 feet thick which the Germans had boasted they had erected along this coast.

Their mobile artillery appears their most formidable defense.

There is no evidence of the "millions" of mines which the

Nazis Report Yanks 6 Miles from Bayeux

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 9—The German high command today said armored tanks from the beachhead west of the Orne had made "local penetrating attacks" in thrusts west and southwest of Bayeux and had only been checked when they reached a point about six miles west of the town.

Although heavy losses were claimed to have been inflicted on the Landing forces, the communique admitted that the allies had strengthened their bridgehead.

The allies were also said to have gained ground in a drive northwest from Ste. Mere Eglise toward Valognes. A Transocean broadcast said this gain was about a mile, and said the drive from Bayeux was in the direction of St. Lo.

St. Lo, Ste. Mere Eglise and Valognes are all on the central line of communications of the Cherbourg peninsula. St. Lo is about 20 miles southwest of Bayeux.

German armored forces counterattacking from Caen were declared by the high command to be engaged in heavy fighting southeast of Bayeux.

One allied cruiser and a destroyer were declared to have been sunk by E-boats.

The German radio quoted a military spokesman as saying United States air-borne troops which landed between Valognes and Ste. Mere Eglise had fought their way through and linked up with the allied bridgehead on the east coast of the peninsula.

ALLIES ADVANCING IN FRANCE DESPITE FIERCE NAZI STAND

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, JUNE 9—American troops hammering toward Cherbourg have captured Ste. Mere Eglise, advancing within 18 miles of the strategic port, the Germans conceded today.

Supreme headquarters made no mention of the town, but declared allied forces were making progress in all sectors despite fierce Nazi armored counterattacks over the green wheatfields and orchards of Normandy.

The German communique conceded the loss of Ste. Mere Eglise, astride one of the main German arteries leading to Cherbourg, saying the Americans were pushing "north and south" from the landing head there.

Advance Toward Valognes

Then a later Berlin broadcast said U. S. troops had advanced a mile beyond the town toward Valognes, 12 miles southeast of the port that would form a great funnel for allied reinforcements and supplies into the battle for France.

American Rear Admiral John Leslie Hall Jr., on a tour of the beachhead, told correspondents operations were going well, but stressed the necessity of quickly building up our forces.

At least 1,600 Nazi prisoners have been taken. A field dispatch today said Americans had captured 600, including some Russians and Poles.

Americans Occupy Formigny

Doughboys have occupied Formigny on the road from Caen to Carentan a field dispatch said. Formigny, one of the few towns identified of many reported taken, is nine miles northwest of Bayeux, and three miles inland.

Other Berlin broadcasts reported street fighting in Caen, and an allied push toward Carentan, 40 miles to the west, and 29 from Cherbourg.

Supreme headquarters gave no confirmation of these or other details, but declared the steadily-augmented allies were holding firm under counterblows of increasing weight and "making progress" on all sectors.

Front dispatches said the battle was developing into a race for supplies, and "it looks as if the allies are winning." There was a freshening breeze today over the misty English channel after a hampering overnight rain.

The Germans rolled up more tanks, dropped parachute troops and sent some supplies charging to the front behind horses.

The Germans made no mention of parachutists earlier reported landed on the west coast 20 miles from Ste. Mere Eglise in an effort to pinch off the tip of the peninsula and its port of 36,000 inhabitants.

Ten German divisions now are engaged, supreme headquarters said, while the Germans said up to 20 Allied divisions had been thrown in. Many Nazi prisoners have been taken.

The Allied command was silent on the battle for Caen—a town of 61,000 population. Caen was described as a pivot of German defenses.

Report Allied Gains

The Germans said the Allies had penetrated five miles below and six miles west of fallen Bayeux, and said Allied beachheads had been strengthened. The Nazi high command claimed gains east of the Orne.

One front dispatch said Americans now hold a beachhead five miles deep on a broad scale, with smaller penetrations several miles farther inland. U. S. parachute troops captured one town, it said, and infantrymen drove the Nazis from another. Much of the fighting was waged on a tree-to-tree and ditch-to-ditch basis, it added.

Other front report said "it is becoming the most involved battle with local retreats and advances having a very definite effect on the general plans both of our commanders and the enemy. Both are seeking every chance to drive in a wedge when there is the slightest faltering."

RAF night bombers hammered German supply rails behind the Ormandy peninsula.

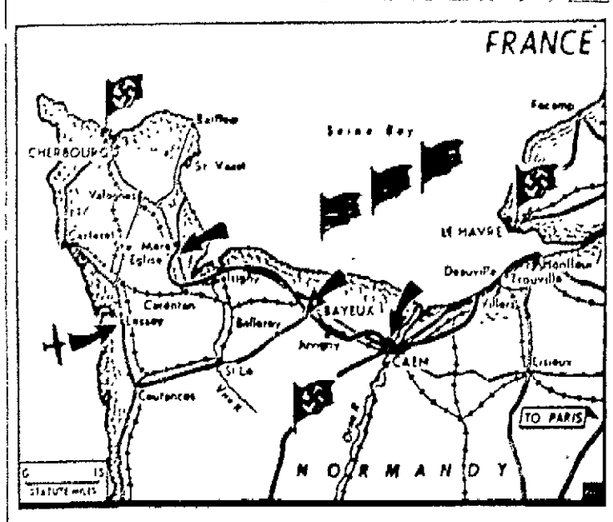
"Landings have continued on all beaches and by-passed strong points of enemy resistance are being steadily reduced," said invasion communique No. 7.

The weather, unstable since before the first landings at dawn Tuesday, took another unfavorable dip late yesterday. Rain fell steadily throughout the night from low-lying clouds, bringing a reduction in air operations. For the first time since the dawn of D-day there was no official mention of airborne operations last night.

An official announcement here said 10 German divisions now were in action in Normandy. Axis broadcasts have asserted between 15 and 20 American, British and Canadian divisions have been landed.

By German account, tank battles raged all the way from Caen on the east to the Carentan area

(Turn to ALLIES, Page 8)



LATEST NEWS OF INVASION PROGRESS today came from the Germans who say Americans moving toward Cherbourg have captured Ste. Mere Eglise (see arrow), advancing to within 18 miles of the strategic port, shown at the upper left of the Associated Press map above. Later Berlin broadcasts said U. S. troops advanced a mile beyond Valognes, 12 miles southeast of Cherbourg, the port that would serve as a great funnel for allied reinforcements and supplies in the battle for France. Germans reported an Allied airborne landing near Lessay (lower arrow), suggesting a pincers move on the Cherbourg peninsula.

MENINGITIS CONTROL REVEALED BY ARMY

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The possibility of eliminating cerebrospinal meningitis as a threat to fighting men was indicated today by the war department's announcement that the army's death rate from the disease had been lowered markedly by a new technique of preventive medicine.

Disclosing the new method consists in occasional administration of the drug sulfadiazine to entire military units as a precautionary measure—especially under such circumstances as embarkation on a troop ship—the department said the procedure had reduced the death rate to less than three per cent of cases, compared with 30.2 per cent in the last war.

"With preventive medicine introducing new tactics and the sulfas providing a powerful weapon," said the announcement, "the current low incidence and low death rate in today's armies offer the possibility of complete defeat of the dread infection."

Cerebrospinal meningitis is the disease causing inflammation of the membranes covering the brain and the spinal cord.

Some persons are immune to the disease, others are not, and when large numbers of men are thrown together as in military camps, epidemics could occur without proper precautions.

The new discoveries of the meningitis commission were detailed in a report made by Dr. Francis G. Blake of Yale university, president of the board for the investigation and control of influenza and other epidemic disease in the army.

Wounded Officer Thinks First of His War Pictures

By RUTH COWAN
AP Correspondent.

AT AN ADVANCED U. S. ARMY FIELD HOSPITAL ON THE SOUTHERN ENGLISH COAST, June 9.—The young signal corps officer, his light brown hair dirty with sand, looked up from his cot in the pre-operative tent and appealed to Capt. Joseph Aprile of New York.

"Please, doc, I've got some film. It's in my camera. It's important. Please—call headquarters in the European theater of operations. Tell them I did get some pictures before they got me."

"Yes, yes, captain," comforted the medical officer as he felt the man's faint pulse. This patient, one of a number back from the allied assault on Europe, was to the trained medical eye "in shock."

"These numbers — please call them," insisted the young officer. He gave several telephone numbers clearly and coherently. Aprile was busy trying to save the man's life. His left foot has been blown off and he had a gunshot wound in his left forearm and a bit of high explosive fragment had gone through his right thigh. So the medical officer called in Adj. Lt. James Enger, Philadelphia, Pa.

Enger placed those telephone calls. Headquarters said it would send a plane to pick up that film.

The signal corps captain asked that his camera, picked up with him, be brought to his cot.

Sgt. Maj. John Cook, Lexington, Ky., took it to him. With the hand of his uninjured arm and with Cook holding the camera, he got the precious film. As he did some sand fell out.

"There," he said, "is a bit of France."

When Maj. J. B. Marshall, Louisville, Ky., chief surgeon, made the round of post operative tents, he bent over the young officer, not yet recovered from the ether, and gently rearranged the blanket.

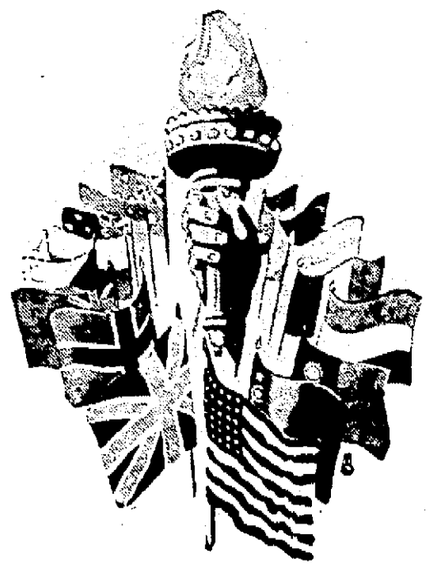
. . . the Boys are Marching!

D-Day is here! The Invasion has begun! And Marion feels it with all the anxiety and solemnity of a city vitally, personally concerned. Hundreds . . . thousands of those marching feet belong to Marion boys . . . your boys and ours. There they go, and our hearts go with them. They are first in our thoughts today, as every home, office, store and factory strains for news, prays for their safety, and hopes for an early Victory.



The boys are marching . . . and this city is in step . . . alert and confident. Side by side with their valiant courage go our War Bonds today—our determined pledge to give them everything they need for Victory and to turn those marching feet back home to us.

Kay Kyser Weds With Assistance of Officers

By The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 9 — Kay Kyser, the lanky, jumping-jack dance-band leader, has married his featured vocalist, Georgia Ann Carroll, with an assist from a couple of peace officers who stopped them for speeding.

The drawling musician-actor-quizmaster and the blue-eyed, blond movie starlet and magazine cover girl—"Gawgeous Gawgia," he introduces her on the radio—were given a speed ticket 50 miles from here while driving from the Victorville, Calif., Army Air Base, where the band performed a few hours earlier.

Kyser apologized for hurrying, and disclosed the couple's plans. Then the officers gallantly escorted them here and served as witnesses while Justice of the Peace Paul O'Malley performed the ceremony yesterday at 1:30 a. m.

It was the first marriage for each. Kyser was born 38 years ago in Rocky Mount, N. C. Miss Carroll, 24, is a native of Dallas, Tex.

Nine Germans Give Up to Captain from Ohio

(Distributed by The Associated Press)

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Nine war-weary Germans recently gave up to Captain John H. Evans Jr. of Jackson, O., now fighting on the Fifth army front in Italy.

Evans, who commands a battery of 105 millimeter Howitzers, was on his way to a forward observation post overlooking the German bastion of Santa Mario Infante just after the push on the Gustav line started. He sighted nine grey-clad figures crouched in a field.

"I knew they were krauts, and expecting them to fire on me, I reached for my pistol. I had some difficulty extracting the gun because of my field glasses, compass and other paraphernalia strapped around me, but there was no need for fumbling," he said. "The Jerries stuck up their hands and yelled, 'Kamerad,' 'Kamerad!'"

Captain Evans then escorted the Germans to a rear area collect point and went back to find more targets for the artillery to shoot at.

Galion Couple To Mark Golden Wedding June 11

Special to The Star

GALION, June 9—Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Casey will be married 50 years next Wednesday, June 14, and to observe the occasion, they will observe open house, Sunday, June 11, at their home. They will receive their friends between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m.

For more than thirty years, Mr. Casey delivered mail on city routes. He retired Nov. 1, 1937. Mr. and Mrs. Casey are parents of three daughters, Mrs. F. L. Foster and Mrs. Ted Thompson, both of Dayton, and Mrs. M. E. Cass of Galion. They have three grandsons, (one of them, Robert M. Cass, serving with the armed forces in the South Pacific), and one granddaughter.

In the First Methodist church Mr. Casey teaches the Alpha Bible class. For three years Mrs. Casey served as president of the general aid society. She was the first president of the Parent-Teachers association at the South School and she served four years as head of the association.

They were married June 14, 1894, at Bucyrus by Rev. John Wilson, pastor of the Methodist church. Before her marriage, Mrs. Casey was Mary Haspeslagh.

Finetta Class Meets at Richwood Church

RICHWOOD—The Finetta class of the Central Methodist church met at the church. Mrs. Myrtle Burgoon, was in charge. Scripture was read by Mrs. Carrie Obie, followed by prayer by Mrs. Minnie Langstaff. The program committee, Mrs. Minnie Langstaff, Mrs. Minnie Fryman and Mrs. Myrtle Burgoon, presented the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Langstaff, Mrs. Burgoon and Mrs. Fryman.

Garden Tips

Corn Planting

By The Associated Press

So you're going to raise corn? Then grow some healthy, tender ears instead of scrawny stalks that can be used for Hallowe'en decoration and little else.

An ancient legend says June-planted corn is the sweetest. Whether or not that is so is a question, but there is little doubt that corn sown in June grows faster than any other and produces unusually good crops, for uncertain weather is over and the ground is mellow and easily worked.

Dig the soil deeply and pulverize it finely. Spade in plenty of fertilizer or complete plant food. Corn is an avid feeder and rapid growth will yield biggest and earliest ears.

Use one quart of seed for 200 hills, two and one-half feet apart. For better-filled ears, plant in squares instead of rows. The reason: Pollen will get the freest possible distribution—no matter which way the wind blows, pollen will be blown throughout the patch. Every silk must have pollen to produce a kernel.

Sow every 10 days in June for a good succession. Early varieties are ready for the table in eight or nine weeks from seed; late varieties in about three months.

Lots of new colors and patterns to choose from, too!

Yes — a shirt whose collar looks starched — but isn't! A collar that can't wilt or wrinkle — looks as fresh at midnight as it did at 8 A.M. That's the Van Heusen shirt with the famous Van Heusen collar attached! They do it by:

1. Weaving those collars in one piece, instead of the usual three layers of cloth.
2. Weaving in the foldline, too, so the collar can't be ironed wrong.

Buy a Van Heusen once — and you're sold for life!

Bucyrus Soldier Finds Bazooka On Battlefield, Makes Good Use of It

The day Sergeant Jim Spencer and Sergeant Lattie Graves learned to use a bazooka was a good day for the Japs, according to a report from the 37th Infantry Division at Bougainville.

Graves, who hails from Bucyrus and Spencer, Bowling Green, O., modestly refer to it as "beginners' luck" but their fellow infantrymen are still telling how the two sergeants picked up a spare bazooka under nearly fire called for instructors on how men were platoon guns and were not members of the bazooka Captain Sidney B. Grosser, Ottawa, O., accompanying commander and warned about the rate of battle.

"Captain, now do you shoot this thing?"

Hastily he was shown how to attach the wire to the shell and how to use the sight. Then he ran to a nearby position accompanied by Sergeant Graves.

"As long as I live" one platoon leader said, "I'll remember Spencer and Graves standing up there and yelling 'Okay, Tojo, here comes our artillery.'"

On the first round they failed to pull the safety pin. The second shell crashed squarely into a pillbox. Elated over this success, they went on to knock out two more fortifications with the same weapon before the enemy

Later, when there were no pillboxes to fire at, they started booting shells into the tree trenches where a few Japs remained. Not all of the rounds contained, but, as Spencer explained later,

"We just wanted to give them a headache."

SEVEN BATTLESHIPS IN INVASION ARMADA

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 9—Seven Allied battleships—[illegible] American—and [illegible] of attacking cruisers [illegible] ships including seven of the French, Norwegian, Polish and Dutch ships, composed the task force which ripped the first breaches in Hitler's Atlantic wall.

The battleship Texas led the [illegible] American units of Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk. The squadron also included the battleships Arkansas and Nevada.

The [illegible] force was led by the British battleship Warspite and [illegible] the battlewagons Rodney, Ramillies and Nelson.

No official breakdown was given on the warships involved, but a compilation from field dispatches showed 31, including the American cruisers Tuscaloosa, Quincy and Augusta. The British turned 75 per cent of the larger warship [illegible] destroyers upward.

The ships' task was to silence Nazi coastal batteries and clear the [illegible] so foot soldiers could go ashore.

That was accomplished with great effectiveness.

The [illegible] goliness was typified by the difficulty the British Scorpion had in getting in its licks because of the zeal of the Norwegian destroyer Stord, which had a hand in the sinking of the Germans' Scharnhorst.

During the coastal shelling, the Scorpion's captain messaged the Stord: "You want any help? I'm getting bored."

The Stord replied only when it had ceased firing: signalling: "Sorry to be so selfish, but this is our first encounter."

Professional Engineers To Meet Here Monday

The Marion Chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers will hold its monthly meeting Monday night at Hotel Harding. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

He will be accompanied and assisted by Merlin Hughes of the Ohio Corrugated Culvert Co., who is a member of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief. This can be done without knife, drugs or loss of time from work.

Events To Come

EVENTS now far in the summer campaign in Europe are part of a large pattern of events to come.

Invasion of Normandy, while it mark an early step in the grand strategy of attack, is clearly only a beginning. It will not constitute the whole of the "grand front" that has been awaited so long.

It is clear now that the conception of a second front has been misleading, to the extent that it obscured the shape of the war as a whole. The Allied campaign in Italy, for example, no longer appears as a separate operation, but is being seen in proper place as a second front spearhead which preceded the landings in Normandy by many months.

Germany is expecting, by its own admission, another spearhead to be driven from the Mediterranean into the southern coast of France, perhaps from Corsica.

There exists the probability of still another spearhead of attack somewhere in the Balkan peninsula. Meanwhile, the Germans are on the alert for invasion at all likely points northward from Normandy up the invasion coast to Denmark and even on the coast of Norway.

Russia is poised in the east for a resumption of the offensive through Poland. There is a possibility of action in the Baltic, to make Allied sea power felt in that hitherto securely guarded German flank.

Development of shuttle bombing as a tactical operation bringing Anglo-American air power in touch with Russia's air power has given symbolic and actual unity to the intensified effort to defeat Germany during the summer of 1944.

All fronts now are part of the same grand strategy of assault. When it stands fully disclosed, as it probably will by the end of June, the second front in western Europe will take its proper place in an encircling force which will close in on the heart of Adolf Hitler's beleaguered empire from every practical quarter.

Aviation already has marked the trails. Development of the air-ground attack, as employed in Normandy, makes it possible for ground forces to be established wherever planes can fly. There is no position which cannot be flanked, or assailed from the rear. There is no place in Hitler's empire that can be regarded by its harassed defenders as entirely safe.

The very circumstances of geography which a few years ago seemed to give security to Germany's European conquests have been transformed by the new military technique of aerial assault and the tremendous improvement in amphibious attack into a liability.

Germany's defenses must be kept at maximum strength everywhere at once. Such forces as may be subtracted to deal with invasion in Normandy become unavailable for dealing with invasion somewhere else. Divisions engaged by the Allies in Italy are drawn from strength needed in the east facing Russia.

There are days of the deepest anxiety ahead for the Allies. The operations being undertaken by the United States, Great Britain and the powers associated with them in their part of the summer campaign are extremely hazardous and are certain to be costly.

But it would be shortsighted not to recognize that the anxiety on our side this year cannot approach the infinitely greater anxiety of the Germans. No amount of domestic propaganda can blind them now to the shape of the intensifying campaign to reduce them to defeat. They are assailed from the outside of their empire on every point of the compass and from the inside by the vengeful populations they have captured. Ultimate defeat is to them as logical a conclusion as to the Allied powers which now are prepared to administer it.

Another June

THE shattered British army had been taken off the beaches at Dunkirk. Prime Minister Churchill, speaking for England in her darkest hour, promised a fight to the finish . . . "on the beaches, landing grounds, in fields, in streets and on the hills . . . We shall never surrender."

The Germans methodically set about their meticulously planned job of destroying the republic of France and insolently warned the United States that Britain was sending secret agents to this continent. Italy stabbed the staggering French in the back. There was nothing on earth to stop the onward rush of a strong and determined enemy—nothing but the grim determination of those who believed the enemy could be stopped because he had to be stopped.

And in the end, they prevailed, despite all the obstacles thrown in front of them. They resolved that "too little and too late" should become "enough and on time." In June, 1944, fourth anniversary of their triumph, they have earned whatever gratitude the thoughtful may remember to give them.

News Behind the News

Invasion Developments Mistaken by Many as Sign That War Is Almost Over.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 9 — The administration is having a difficult time putting down overoptimistic interpretations of the general result on Europe, not only by the public but in its own ranks.

D-Day was hardly over before business firms started calling the men they had loaned to the government for war work saying the war was ending, and they had better come back as soon as possible to their old jobs.

The treasury seemed skittish that the public also might jump to the same conclusion in connection with the $16,000,000,000 war bond drive opening Monday.

Actually, however, it is unlikely that the drive will break in either of these directions. The dollar-a-year men will be held to their jobs, and prospects for the bond drive are bright.

More Cash Than Ever

While the amount is $16,000,000,000 (two billions above last time), the people have more cash than ever before piling up in banks, and their enthusiasm should be lifted by the invasion so the point where the amount again will be over subscribed.

Bonds are the same as cash these days, and there is no reason why $110,000,000,000 should have accumulated in bank deposits and $20,000,000,000 more in cash outside of banks (as carried in this column May 31) when these amounts can draw greater interest.

But the administration itself inwardly is far from prepared to meet the end of the war, or even begin to meet it.

Baruch Plan Lags

The popular Baruch scheme to transfer industry smoothly and efficiently back to peace-time operation, was drawn up last December, made public Feb. 15, but not until May 23 were the beginnings of action on it even faintly visible. Then Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board was appointed by over-all Stabilizer Byrnes to start work.

One contract termination bill (Murray-George) has been passed by congress, but surplus property legislation is just now being developed for congressional consideration.

The matter had reached such a pitiful state that Mr. Baruch, who would stand practically anything from the administration, was reported in the press to have presented his resignation, along with that of John M. Hancock, as the top two men at the head of what was supposed to be the post war policy - making committee, but them apparently was not turned out to be as powerful as its paper authority.

Story Kept from Public

The administration has sought to keep the resignation story from the press, possibly to get Messrs. Baruch and Hancock to change their minds.

The prospect now is that the new Wilson leadership may furnish the necessary impetus, to work the matter out, but the prospect is not as bright as it was last February 15 when the Baruch report was announced, and every one was led to believe the matter was more or less settled.

Clashing personalities seem solely responsible for the otherwise inexplainable delay. At the top of the clash was Wilson himself. He had a substantial backing among government officials from the beginning as the man to lead the job. His supporters included Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and War Under-Secretary Patterson.

CIO Action Helps

But Mr. Wilson was only a WPB executive vice chairman to Donald Nelson, whose friends thought he should have the job. Several times Mr. Wilson threatened to resign like Messrs Baruch and Hancock.

Apparently, the greatest power of the supposedly powerful authorities of the government is a resignation threat.

Messrs. Baruch, Hancock and Wilson might have done better if they had belonged to the CIO as it was not until the CIO unionists of the Brewster Aeronautical plant rushed down here with irate complaints after their company's contract had been cancelled that any action was taken on the Baruch report.

SALVADOR DALI

"SOONER or later everyone is bound to come to me," writes Salvador Dali in his foreword to "Hidden Faces." "Some, untouched by my painting, concede that I draw like Leonardo. Others, who quarrel with my aesthetics, agree in considering my autobiography one of the 'human documents' of the period. Still others, questioning the 'authenticity' of my 'Secret Life,' have discovered in me literary gifts superior to the skill which I reveal in my pictures, and to what they call the mystification of my confessions . . ."

Dali then adds that, in 1922 Garcia Lorca predicted a literary career for him, that he himself thinks the success of his "multiform work" is due to the fact that he is "probably the most hard-working artist of our day." Now that "Hidden Faces" is finished Dali plans to paint a year, and then to study music for two years. At the end of that time he expects he says to write an opera, doing the book, the music, the settings and the costumes. He will then direct the opera himself!

The shocking thing is that he quite likely will.

I doubt that anyone can exactly explain "Hidden Faces." It actually is a novel in precisely the same sense that a Dali canvas is a painting. All the attributes are there, but few of them in the expected places. He has, apparently, tried to suggest the decadence of pre-war France by describing certain facets of it intimately, and yet the product is less a strict picture of France in the morass than it is a picture of Dali. Doubtless this is according to plan, for Dali is a most calculating man.

Now that the book is finished, I find myself remembering no overall picture, but features of it — Betka smoking opium with the alarming Cecile Goudreau, the bizarre death of Solange de Cleda. But if there is no over-all picture, there is a pervasive atmosphere. It is the strange sensualism that belongs to Dali alone. It may be fake or it may be genuine, but the result is a lot as if Proust were to run amok among his words, and having reached the ultimate limit, were to find himself confined in Salvador Dali's mind.

Consolation Prize

ON THE SALWEEN FRONT, China—William F. Boni, Associated Press war correspondent with expeditionary forces in west China, borrowed a carbine to hunt for small game in the woods.

After an hour's tramp he drew a bead on a crow but discovered he had forgotten to load the gun. A second crow winged lazily out of range as Boni, trying to release the safety catch, pressed the button and disengaged the ammunition clip. An hour later, he racked up a clean miss on a third crow.

Two hours passed and Boni, footsore, weary but triumphant, returned to camp, with an armful of wild flowers—his trophies for a day in the woods.

"THE HARDEST BATTLE STILL LIES AHEAD"

—Pres. Roosevelt

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 9, 1934.

President Roosevelt asked congress for $525,000,000 for use in providing relief to residents of areas stricken by drouth.

Steel union officials revolted against a peace plan proposed by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA head, and the employers. They announced they would present a plan of their own to the President, and then return home "prepared to fight."

O. E. Huff, 67, of Ravenna, a former Marion resident, died at the home of Rev. and Mrs. D. N. Kelly in Bellefontaine.

E. H. Bindley, A. L. Bintz, William Muntsinger and George Andres of Marion and Willis Spencer of Columbus left to spend 10 days at the Bindley cottage at Indian River, Mich.

Wilson Milner of Dallas, Tex., who had been visiting in Chicago, arrived to spend the week-end with his aunt, Mrs. E. E. Patten of Harding Highway east.

Mrs. Charles Burke of Davids street left for a two weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Swinehart of Cleveland.

Jerry Wessling, Toledo parachute jumper who had performed at Marion airport in 1930, was killed in a leap at Floyd Bennett field in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ralph Casto, 35, of Cardington, died at the Marion City hospital.

Two hundred Odd Fellows from Marion and 17 other cities gathered here for an initiatory ceremony in the Eagles hall.

Mrs. Clara Campbell of Gurley avenue entertained a group of friends for the pleasure of Mrs. Burns Perfect of Greenville, Pa., a former Marion resident.

Mrs. Joseph Mitchell gave a dinner and shower at her home on South State street in honor of Miss Mary Horseman, a bride-elect.

Mrs. Robert H. Stief of East Church street gave a dinner bridge and miscellaneous shower for the pleasure of Mrs. Max Yarrington, a recent bride.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, June 9, 1924.

As Republicans assembled in Cleveland for their national convention, it was announced that governmental economy would be the dominant issue in the platform on which President Coolidge would run for reelection. At the same time, there were reports that William E. Borah had been considered a possible vice presidential nominee.

It was announced that land south of the Marion cemetery facing the Marion-Delaware pike had been selected as the site for the Harding tomb. The selection was made Sunday at a meeting of the committee named to select a site. The members were Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of War John W. Weeks and Charles M. Schwab. They had spent the greater part of Sunday here inspecting proposed sites.

Francis Beckel, 73, lifelong resident of Richland township, died at his home.

Post-War Income Tax Plan

By James D. White

WASHINGTON—There's talk in congress about requiring income taxes after the war—but don't bank on that until you see it happen.

We spend about 90 billion dollars a year on the war, and our present national income of 148 billion dollars (for 1943) yields taxes amounting to about 45 billion.

Post-war government cost is estimated at 20 to 25 billion a year, so some think taxes can be cut in half once that war cost stops.

But many factors will decide whether you will pay higher, lower or about the same tax rate, all of them difficult to foresee. Here are a few of the things which may make all the difference:

First how much will the government need in taxes?

That 20 to 25 billion-dollar cost estimated includes such expected items as five billion interest on the public debt, three to five billion for veterans, five billion for the armed forces and another five billion for federal expenses—commitments to state aid programs, farmers, public works, etc.

The public debt is approaching 190 billion, and an effort to retire it all or in part would get farther into government tax income. Experts disagree, but fundamental questions are: Is the debt to be paid off, kept around its present large figure, or allowed to get even larger?

Where will the government get the taxes? Ask instead: To what class of taxpayer will the government go for the bulk of its income? This is the real rub.

Middle Class Incomes

A serious consideration here—and one with a background of long economic experience—is the desire among some tax experts to go after middle-class income brackets. These brackets do not invest heavily as a rule in economic ventures but in the mass represent large accumulations of savings (capital). In the view of some experts, this money ought to be working instead of lying relatively idle in low-interest accounts or other forms of savings.

Business interests plead that corporation income and especially excess profits taxes must be lowered after the war. Otherwise, they say, capital just will not bother to invest in business or industrial enterprise.

Whether or not this is true, if corporations are taxed less, some source may have to be taxed more to make up the difference.

Balancing The Budget

Officials estimate that if the tax rate stays at its present level, the revenue from the $115,000,000,000 anticipated post-war national income would average about $25,000,000,000—or just about enough to balance the expected budget.

But should war-time excise taxes on certain goods—cosmetics, tobacco, liquor and patent medicines—be removed or cut, revenue thus lost also would have to be made up somewhere, if the budget is to be balanced.

A mere shift in the methods of taxing corporations, as has been suggested, like taxing the income of individual stockholders in a corporation instead of taxing the income of the corporation itself, would keep other John Does from being affected greatly.

Remember, the rate of taxation is what counts—not the amount—especially in relation to price levels.

Even if a man made a generous pile of money, if he had to pay extra high prices for consumer goods and services, even a small tax would hurt. That's another argument for keeping inflation under control.

Mascot's Family Names

By The Associated Press

LONDON—"Libby," mascot at a U. S. Naval base in Britain, gave birth to six kittens which got tender care in everything but names. The mother cat is named after the Liberators flown from the base but her offsprings were christened "Tailspin," "Zombie," "Subconscious," "Seabee Biscuit," "Low and Slow," and "Boy-would-I-like-to-be-home-in-the-States." The latter is called "Boy" for short.

Rendering Unto Caesar—

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Private Purkey in Rome

DEAR ED.—

Well, all jeeps lead to Rome and here I am all tangled up in more monumente and museums and art galleries, forums, furnuses, beams and old ruins, including King Emma, than I ever seen in one place. But the one of the Palace Venema gives me the biggest on account of it's the balcony which he got to get me in into such a mess. If anybody had only of captured that balcony instead of Sicily or even twenty years ago what a difference it would of made to Italy. (Aw, the hell.)

* * *

The first thing I did was to go to the Palace Venezia to see the place from where Mussolini talked Italy into a state of daffiness and talked himself into and out of a good job. I wanted to see it on account of as a kid I seen so many newsreel pictures of the big bum throwing his chest and making faces which was made for the face of Superman and always talked like a mad bull. Well I got to report I seen it better seldomes, but I guess maybe more than ever got so many people in so much trouble.

The rail was a little damaged from souvenir and there was deep ruts in the stone floor where Benny strutting up and down for 21 years. Also there was a bad smell which the Italians apologized for because Benito had only been out about a year and nobody could remember the smell of a guy like that in so short a time.

* * *

I got a kick out of the Colleseum. The Colleseum is not no movie picture house and it's no restaurant like you would think. It is a exact model of the Yankee Stadium with a little of the Yale Bowl thrum in. It looks all shot to pieces but not as shot to pieces as the Yankee Stadium after a outdoor fight. Sergeant Mike explains to me that it is thousands of years old and was where the Romans played ball back before Bennie give up the idea the ball was a good outdoor sport was making funny sales.

I also seen the Roman Forum which was the place where Julius Caesar got the knife from some fellow by the name of Brutus and I stood on the spot where Mark Anthony, who was a relative to Dr. Anthony of radio fame, delivered the famous funeral spiel and asked everybody to lend him their ears. Well he was a better guy than Mussolini, who did not ask to borrow no ears but just talked them right off the peoples heads.

* * *

I also seen Romulus and Remus and I got a lecture on it from an ex-Fascist leader who is now just picking up a few cents here and there, but the story is too deep for me. It is all about two kids and a wolf which gave Italy its start never knowing that some day two salutes and a polecat would almost give Italy its finish.

* * *

Well I never seen a city so glad to get captured. In fact the people was pretty sore we didn't take them sooner. The King got right after I got in, but he is such a little fellow nobody noticed he was gone and some say he is still here.

* * *

Well I will have to close as I still got two hundred more statues to see and a bridge where a man by name of Horatio wrote a poem about a bridge which I read in school. Everything is okay here. Do not worry. It is the big push in France what counts.

Yours,

OSCAR

"ONE up and two to go," says the Press of the fall of Rome. But it may yet prove a case of one up, one and a half to go.

The Germans are fleeing so fast in Rome that the old saying has been revised by Kaltenring to read "All roads lead FROM Rome."

"The loss of Rome is painful," says Benito Mussolini.

Well, being one of the world's greatest producers of gas, he should be able to take it to get a little ease.

D-Day at Home

By Truman Twill

While the details are fresh, many of us want to fix them in our minds against the inevitable day when some bright-eyed youngster will ask what D-day meant to us civilians.

Perhaps they won't understand what we know now so well, that it was a time of personal appraisal which left most of us overwhelmed with a feeling of personal inadequacy. Up and down the quiet streets, the stars in the service flags reminded us that we stood a long, long way from danger.

Men and women at their work, in their homes, on the streets—wherever they happened to be—searched themselves for reassurance that would let them feel they were worthy of the night's endeavor being made in their behalf by the brave and the strong.

There were some—and this we must admit, too—who did not measure up. It was inevitable in those instants in history when the sheep are to be separated from the goats, without any chance of right of appeal.

Externally, everything went on as usual. Plans were composed. With minor exceptions, which all regretted, there was a condition of discipline which attested to the people's confidence in their leadership and their armed forces. We behaved, as we see it from a safe distance, as well as could be expected.

There was special consideration for those whose loved ones were known to be in danger, a kind of instinctive consideration that was evident even in the calm, measured inflection of the radio announcers. They had come a long way from the frenzy of the early days of the war.

On the streets where crowds gathered on their way to and from work, in the buses, restaurants, factories and stores, there was no visible excitement. D-day was not an adventure. It was a challenge.

It was the grand overture to a series of events which Adolf Hitler once predicted would determine the course of history for a thousand years to come. We understood that, as we saw and understood the tears in the eyes of our neighbors, wondering what might be happening to their loved ones.

The newspaper we folded and put away as a memento may never be looked at again by our bright-eyed youngsters we should have. Our talk about D-day may be too preoccupied with mentioning the men who were there to "tell" on someone with nothing of any consequence to tell. But that was the way it was with the plans. There was nothing of any consequence to tell.

FREEDOM IN POLAND PLEDGED BY STALIN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9—Prof. Oscar Lange, University of Chicago economist who recently interviewed Premier Stalin, declared today the Soviet marshal "made it very clear that the independence and sovereignty of Poland will be fully recognized" by Russia after the war.

"There will be no interference in internal affairs," of Poland, Lange quoted Stalin as saying.

Lange offered as support of what he said Stalin told him these two observations:

1. The Soviet government is arming the Polish army which one Polish general said was expected to grow to 1,000,000 men before the end of the war.

2. Russians are permitting in schools for Polish refugee children new textbooks written by the Union of Polish Patriots, a Polish organization in Russia, and the committee for Polish children. These are replacing old textbooks because they contained Communist teachings.

Allen Reports Nazis' Forces Still Strong

By LARRY ALLEN

Places at summer camps held under the guidance of the Y. M. C. A. are fast being filled, Marion Y officials said today. Camp periods for girls have been completely filled as have places for boys at Camp Pittenger. A few places are still left at Camp Nelson Dodd. Boys may register for the camping period from Aug. 6 to 18. Officials emphasized that registration should be made immediately because the places will not be held open. Complete information concerning the camp may be had by calling the Y. M. C. A. Y membership is not needed to make boys eligible to attend the camp.

Former Resident of Ashley Dies

Mrs. Amanda Curren, 88, a former Ashley resident, died early today at the Hewit nursing home in Springfield, following a stroke suffered about eight weeks ago.

She was born in Morrow county March 20, 1856. Her husband, Thomas J. Curren died in 1927. It was at that time that she moved to Springfield from Ashley. She was a member of the Marlboro Baptist church.

She is survived by one son, Willard of Springfield and a brother, John Benson of Mt. Gilead. The body was taken to the Ramsey-Mohr funeral home in Delaware. Funeral services probably will be held Sunday afternoon with burial in Marlboro cemetery.

Relieve that Tormenting
PIN-WORM ITCH
Too Embarrassing to Talk About!
It is no longer necessary to put up with the trouble caused by Pin-Worms. Don't let your child or yourself suffer that tormenting, embarrassing rectal itching, or take chances with the internal distress.
Medical science has now discovered a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn and troublesome infection. This important scientific discovery is a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. It is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the ugly creatures.
Watch for the warning signs: itching nose and seat, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, uneven appetite. Remember that now there is a treatment that works on Pin-Worms as no old-fashioned "worm syrup" or "worm candy" could. So if you even suspect Pin-Worms, get a box of P-W right away, and follow the directions carefully.
P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

Allies Advance in Normandy

at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula on the west.

Nazi, British Tanks Battle

Transocean said in a Berlin broadcast that Allied liberating forces had made their deepest penetration in the area of captured Bayeux, inland from the center of the Normandy invasion coast. It declared "grim" fighting between German and British tanks was in progress four or five miles southwest of Bayeux.

The Germans conceded they had been hurled back on the defensive in the Carentan fighting, a third of the way across the Cherbourg peninsula, as the Allies brought in reinforcements. Berlin previously has identified American troops in action there.

It was apparent that vital roads in this area, leading to the prize port of Cherbourg, had been denied the Germans. Half of the main highway arteries of the entire peninsula run through this town.

Definite reports of progress were meager at supreme headquarters. It appeared the allies had reached an interim stage where tired troops were pushing forward more slowly in order to get their second wind and let supplies catch up with them. Unloading conditions were none too good.

The Germans continued to broadcast reports of new allied landings at various points on the Cherbourg peninsula, but the allied command mentioned no such operations.

The Germans declared they had identified the American First, Fourth and 29th infantry divisions and the 101st airborne division in action in that area. Supreme headquarters announced the American First was in the forefront at the original landing.

Race To Build Up Forces

The overall battle now has become a race between the allies and the Germans in building up their forces. The Germans have the advantage of internal communications, close supply depots all over France and land mobility.

The allies hold sea control and air superiority—but low hanging clouds today were giving the Germans some protection from the far-ranging allied airmen.

In yesterday's air operations allied fleets destroyed 72 German planes for a loss of 40. German made four fighter-bomber attacks against the invasion beaches between early morning and late last night, employing some 60 planes, but each time they were driven off. They made an unconfirmed assertion that Nazi planes set fire to an allied cruiser yesterday off the invasion beaches.

Despite the bad weather, allied heavy bombers maintained a steady succession of attacks, and rocket-firing allied fighter-bombers left a German E-boat in a sinking condition in the English channel and damaged several others.

British and American air forces continued dropping supplies by air yesterday—including other parachuted to advance hospitals.

To bring up reinforcements, the Germans are using any vehicles they can lay their hands on. Allied pilots said they observed armored equipment, supply trucks and even horse-drawn vehicles moving toward the front.

A German broadcast declared "it seems that a bitter tank battle" north of Caen "has not yet reached its peak."

Rocket-firing allied planes went into the fray yesterday to attack Nazi armor between Caen and Bayeux, a region described in front line dispatches as excellent for armored warfare.

Reports Swift Advance

In a report direct from the front last night, Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, said Canadian infantry and tanks had advanced swiftly through wooded farmlands and forced the Germans from a dozen Normandy towns, sometimes after stiff house-to-house fighting.

Axis reports said Allied forces were as much as five miles beyond Bayeux, captured two days ago by the British, in a drive to sever the Cherbourg peninsula to the west and gain possession of Cherbourg's dock facilities—described by the Paris radio as Eisenhower's first objective.

Munro's dispatch said Caen, nine miles inland and 18 miles southeast of Bayeux, still was "strongly held by the Germans."

The Germans apparently had built up some of their strongest resistance at Caen. A field dispatch dated Wednesday noon declared "we are within hours, perhaps minutes of taking our first main objective, the town of Caen." The picture obviously changed as German reserves moved in, although Berlin acknowledged Allied troops had penetrated the burning, shell-wrecked city.

The weather, which threatened to throw the invasion plans awry in the early critical period, remained poor today. All-night rain continued well into daylight and clouds hung low over Dover straits. There was only a light breeze, however, and the sea was smooth.

Favored yesterday by clear skies, the powerful Allied air arm gave the enemy a smashing blow. Heavy bombers ranged deep into France, hitting railway focal points and airfields. Fighter-bombers swept a deep belt south and southeast of the battle area, attacking German reinforcements. The Allied command said that during the invasion period up to noon yesterday Allied planes flew 27,000 individual missions.

Speed Is Important

A front-line dispatch last night said "much depends on the speed of the build-up of the bridgehead" in supplies and troops because substantial enemy forces apparently are probing for a spot to launch a major counter-attack.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio declared 20 Allied divisions had landed in Normandy. A Berlin broadcast said two Allied airborne divisions "in many hundreds" of gliders landed yesterday in the liberated area north of Bayeux.

A Vichy broadcast said Allied troops who occupied Bayeux were advancing against strong German resistance toward Carentan, some 24 miles westward and 30 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

Supreme headquarters disclosed that American doughboys, possibly those in the western area of the bridgehead, were fighting for a lateral road, but its location was not given.

Both Allied and German reports indicated progress in tank clashes still more fierce than those in progress.

Canadians plunging southward east of Bayeux could see the Germans ahead assembling for new efforts. A dispatch said the Canadians there late yesterday were bracing themselves for an expected counterattack after having fought off one fierce probing thrust. In that attack, Germans sent 30 to 35 tanks at a time into action but Canadian infantry, strongly supported by their own tanks and massed artillery, drove them off.

Nazi Tiger Tanks In Action

German Tiger tanks were reported moving up from the Falaise sector—the inland area some 30 miles from the sea where the Germans have been reporting Allied airborne units. Axis broadcasts said "super-heavy" British tanks had landed.

A Berlin spokesman was quoted by the Paris radio as saying the battle in the Bayeux-Caen area "has reached a climax of fury but the last word will be left to tank engagements."

Allied forces already have engaged at least two German motorized divisions—one of them Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's 21st division, beaten by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in North Africa and later reformed.

Ten German divisions have been identified thus far. One single Allied division, not identified, was credited yesterday with more than 1,000 German prisoners. Canadian infantry seized another 600 or more.

First into France in the last war, the American First division again was first this time. U. S. First and the British 50th Northumbrian infantry divisions spearheaded Tuesday's dawn attack. Both fought in North Africa and Sicily.

Heavy Loss In One Sector

A delayed dispatch received last night from Lewis Hawkins, Associated Press war correspondent who accompanied the Americans ashore, reported "shocking evidence of death and destruction" on one three-mile sector of beach where the Yanks stormed from the sea.

Hawkins said bad weather "pobably was the chief cause of the Americans' relatively heavy loss of men" in establishing this beachhead.

Supreme headquarters announced completion of the first phase of the invasion—"securing of a foothold and the defeating of local German reserves"—and said the second phase had begun. The latter calls for defeating the German tactical reserves, those immediately at hand. Then the task will be to crush strategic reserves, reinforcements brought up from a distance.

Supreme headquarters still gave no word of airborne forces that the Germans have said were landed at many points behind the battle area. The German Transocean agency said these Allied paratroopers were wearing white or yellow scarves as a recognition emblem.

Invasion Reaches One of It's Most Dangerous Phases

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We are at a critical and dangerous stage of the invasion of Continental Europe.

The superb way the Americans landed are battling ahead with their job is to be an open secret, but the operation has been handicapped by bad weather. We are not, as I see it, so far ahead on the Italian front that we could have dared risk much weak strength.

This means, of course, that the enemy has gained precious time in getting set for his all-out counter-attack which is now in the making. It means the allies have their work cut out for them to get ready for this crucial onslaught. Action Romme is likely to speed up in view of circumstances.

First Phase Complete

We have completed the first phase of the landing, as supreme allied headquarters tells us. This is the "securing of a foothold and the defeating of the local German reserves." We are now engaged in the second phase, which is a swelling battle with Hitler's reserves that are being rushed from neighboring stations. The third phase will be Rommel's major attack.

Right from the start the invasion forces have been handicapped by the weather. Troops and supplies have been landed on the beaches with great difficulty because of high seas. In short we should have had a lot more men and material ashore had the weather man been a good sport.

Now lest some think that this is rather a drab picture I will remark that I didn't get out of bed on the wrong side. I'm feeling swell and am confident. But I think it's smart to look this invasion giant right in the eye.

What the allies need most of all is a port through which could be poured the endless forces and the mountains of supplies which are vital for the breaching of Hitler's Atlantic wall. By the way, the main defenses of that Atlantic wall are not, as a lot of people seem to think, on the sea shore. They are well inland and the allied high command has said they are formidable.

Good Port Will Help

The great port of Cherbourg—one of the world's finest—would be a godsend to the allies right now, and the signs are that they are aiming at its early capture. If we can get Cherbourg and isolate the peninsula we shall indeed be sitting pretty.

Here enters the element of time in a big way. The allies will have to move fast in order to get set for the Nazi attack which will come as soon as Rommel can figure out just what he's up against. It's vastly to our advantage that he's bedeviled by the fact that the allies are capable of flinging armies ashore elsewhere. He dare not concentrate all his strength, or anything like it, on any one point under such conditions.

The Germans say—and I see no reason to challenge their word—that several big allied invasion fleets are ready to sail from various points in the British Isles. Some of them may be intended to feed the Cherbourg operation. Or they may be set for new amphibious assaults. That's the big worry of the Hitlerites right now.

These early days of the invasion are the ones on which Hitler is gambling to produce a fluke which may give him a negotiated peace instead of unconditional surrender. He knows that, barring some freak of fortune, he already is beaten. This is his last long-shot gamble.

TAFT SEES DANGER TO FUTURE PEACE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—The greatest danger to an organization for permanent peace is the idea that England, Russia and the United States now have the problem solved, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., O.) of Cincinnati said today.

In a radio address on [illegible] Taft declared:

"The greatest danger to an organization for permanent peace seems to me to be the idea that England, Russia and the United States are to save the world. My own belief is that such an alliance finally and absolutely destroys the hope for a real or successful association of nations.

"The idea of such an alliance is to make it so strong that no one can challenge it successfully. It becomes, therefore, the old balance of power. That policy was not a successful insurer of peace."

What is needed, Taft said, is a "definite plan for world trade which will eliminate economic injustice."

Definite steps to persuade England and Russia to join in making a political settlement which will give "freedom to those people who are capable of self-government and who desire freedom," also are necessary, the Ohio senator added.

$600 IN EQUIPMENT TAKEN FROM SCHOOL

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 9 — Equipment valued at approximately $600 stolen from the Lykens school some time between Monday night and Wednesday morning is being sought by Sheriff Albert H. French.

The equipment was taken after the intruders broke a window glass and unlocked a door.

Included in the items missing are a $400 projector and sound machine, a microphone and screen, an electric drill and tools and sets for taps and dies and wrench sockets.

The office was forced open and keys secured with which the burglar opened the school rooms, ransacking desks and cupboards.

The theft was discovered by the school janitor when he went to work Wednesday.

THE VICTORY VOLUNTEERS ARE ON THE WAY

Open your door and your heart to them

WHO IS THE VICTORY VOLUNTEER? He (or she) is someone in your locality—maybe a close neighbor or a friend—who has volunteered to work for the 5th War Loan Drive.

One of these volunteers may call at your home or place of work soon—on the most important mission of the hour!

America has asked you before to do something extra to smash Hitler and Tojo. In this 5th War Loan Drive, you're asked to go all-out with every dollar you can scrape up—for war expenditures are greater now than any time since Pearl Harbor. Double your extra War Bond investments. Buy at least one extra Bond now. Invest $100, $200, $300, $400—more if you can.

Yes, it's that important. This war is mounting in fury every minute—as our fighting men plunge into the biggest and bloodiest battle of history. The men who fought and bled and died for you haven't hesitated. Only by answering "yes" to the Victory Volunteer—only by investing to the limit—can you come at all close to matching their spirit. For their sake—and for your own future—open your door and your heart!

5TH WAR LOAN DRIVE Starts June 12th

JUNE 12TH. Remember the date. It is the start of the greatest "war call" ever sent to the American people. You will want to do your part. Remember, it may not be possible for a Victory Volunteer to reach every home, plant, and office. If it happens that you are missed during the drive, go to your nearest bank or Post Office or wherever they sell War Bonds. Buy all you can—at least one extra Bond—the biggest Bond you can afford. And then, when you think you've reached your limit—buy some more! Every dollar counts—NOW!

WELCOME THE VICTORY VOLUNTEERS When They Come To Tell You About War Bonds.

JAPS THREATEN CHINESE BASE

By The Associated Press

Japan's grinding offensive to cut China in two carried today within seven and one-half miles of Changsha, key Chinese center on the Hankow-Canton railway.

In the only Pacific war theater where the battle lines were running against the aches, a Japanese force estimated at 70,000 to 80,000 troops pressed steadily toward the Hunan province capital.

A Chinese army spokesman at Chungking said the penetration to seven and one-half miles was made by an enemy column advancing from the north on the railway where defenders have been ordered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to stay to the last.

Meanwhile, Chinese troops, Kaifang westward in a Salween river offensive designed to reopen the Burma road, were marching the gap between them and allied forces in northern Burma.

The advancing Chinese burst into Lungling, next to Tengchung the most important Japanese base in Yunnan province, and explained their foothold inside the city's west gate. The Chinese high command also reported the capture of Tenglungschiao, six miles northwest, which snipped enemy communications between Lungling and Tengchung.

American airmen of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command damaged a Japanese heavy cruiser—one of the few carefully—husbanded fleet units the enemy has dared to risk in the southwest Pacific recently.

Liberator bombers planted two 500-pound bombs near the bow of the cruiser at Waigeo island off northern New Guinea some 350 miles west-northwest of Biak island in the Schoutens where the Yankee invaders were rushing the newly-won Mokmer airdrome into operation.

REPORT PRESIDENT'S HEALTH EXCELLENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—President Roosevelt (age 62, weight 180) is in better health today than he has been in any time for a year—that's the opinion of his doctor who told reporters:

"He's in better physical condition than the average man of his age."

Questions of war and politics are affected by the report.

The President has talked of a possible trip for a closer look at the war and Democrats who have piled up more than enough convention votes to nominate him for a fourth term have agreed that the state of his health would play a big part in what he does.

But the President is going to take it as easy as possible if the doctor, Vice Admiral Rear T. McIntire has his way. He'd get in as much swimming as possible, even lunch-time golf and relax in the sunshine when it can be arranged.

At the request of reporters, McIntire yesterday went over the results of a physical examination the President underwent. At the same time he told, for the first time, the full list of ailments that beset the chief executive last winter after his return from Teheran.

FOUR-DAY STRIKE ENDS AT WRIGHT

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 9 A strike which for four days paralyzed airplane engine production at the Wright Aeronautical Corp. plant simmered out today, 15 hours before expiration of a company "work-or-be-fired" ultimatum.

Col. George K. Strong of the army air forces central district procurement office in Detroit and George Addes of Cleveland, international secretary-treasurer of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), joined in a statement that they considered the strike "over," and Addes added he planned an almost immediate return to Cleveland.

Both expressed appreciation for the "patriotic" action of workers who returned to their jobs, and "especially" to a number who reportedly worked through two consecutive overnight shifts.

The company reported production "almost normal."

The swift change in the picture occurred amid indications however, of a major struggle developing between the United Automobile Workers (CIO) which now claims to represent as high as 23,000 of the plant's 35,000 employes, and John L. Lewis' district 50, United Mine Workers. A UMW organization drive was reported under way.

The company contends that "bonafide strikers" numbered only 450 and that others among the 15,000 who left their posts Monday in protest over the introduction of seven Negroes into a "white" department, walked out in sympathy.

The seven were on the job today as production resumed.

NEW WARD STRIKE NOW SHAPING UP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 9—Another Montgomery Ward strike in Chicago shaped up as a possibility today, with a union statement that if it comes the government again will be asked to take over the plant.

A special house committee, which wound up public hearings yesterday on the authority of President Roosevelt to seize the Ward plant in April, developed this set of facts:

1—The war labor board again has ordered Wards to extend a CIO contract which includes a union maintenance of membership clause.

2—Ward officials challenged the WLB's right to impose such a condition.

3—The union said a new strike was quite probable as a result and that the President would be asked, if that happens, to seize the property again.

FARLEY RESIGNS AS PARTY CHAIRMAN

By The Associated Press

The resignation of James A. Farley as New York Democratic state chairman was regarded by Washington politicians today as an inevitable consequence of his known opposition to a fourth term for any President and his apparent belief that President Roosevelt will run again.

With nomination within the President's grasp—if he wants it—Farley's position as party leader of one of the most pivotal of states last was becoming awkward if not untenable, they said.

Neither Farley nor his longtime associates in Washington gave any hint that he would bolt the party or even join in any anti-Roosevelt movement which might develop within the framework of the party. Rather, his friends said, his will be a hands off attitude.

The former postmaster-general and ex-national Democratic chairman explained yesterday he was resigning because his business duties—he's a Coca Cola company executive—would not allow him to give enough time to committee affairs. A successor is to be chosen July 11.

BURNS FATAL TO MORROW CO. WOMAN

Mrs. Beatrice Watkins Passes Away in Galion Hospital.

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD, June 9—Mrs Beatrice Watkins, 39, of three miles north of Mt. Gilead, died yesterday in Galion City hospital from burns accidentally received Wednesday night. Mrs. Watkins was waiting for her husband, Harold Watkins, a member of the Mt. Gilead fire department, to return from a firemen's meeting at the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing Co., and was sitting in a chair when he returned shortly before midnight and found her severely burned.

She had been in poor health for several years.

Cause of the fire could not be determined. She remained in a semi-conscious condition until her death and was unable to be questioned.

Mrs. Watkins was born July 8, 1904, to Michael and Edna Sherman. Her father and stepmother live in Edison. Survivors include two children, Oren Day and Ronald Watkins, at home, and eight brothers and sisters, Merrill Sherman of Mt Gilead, Joseph Sherman of Orient, Mrs. Carrie Weldon, Mrs. Alta Gallagher and Mrs. Myrtle McHugh to Cleveland, Henry Sherman of Columbus, James Sherman of Iberia, and Mrs. Margaret Zora of Marietta, Ga. She is also survived by five half-brothers and half-sisters.

Funeral services will be held at the Craven funeral home in Mt. Gilead Saturday at 3 p. m. Rev. Ray C. McMillan will conduct the services and burial will be made in the Bryn Zion cemetery.

also to be hampering the Germans, since the big British Lancasters and Halifaxes met fewer Nazi fighters than on the previous night.

Allied light bombers also struck at rail targets behind the battle area during the night.

Shoot Up Trains

Bucking the bad weather, English, Australian and New Zealand Mosquito squadrons shot up trains and bombed railroad stations, roads, bridges and German encampments.

By noon yesterday, allied aircraft had flown more than 27,000 sorties (individual plane flights) since the invasion began.

Reconnaissance revealed that in a previous attack a great six-ton "factory buster" bomb fell directly across a railroad cut near the important rail junction of Saumur, 100 miles southeast of the battle area, forming an obstacle to movement of German reinforcements from Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz's army group in southern France.

to the prisoners, it left only a week ago," said the spokesman. "The 20th Luftwaffe field division differs from the normal infantry division only in the fact that its personnel is drawn from the Luftwaffe ground staff, as in the case of the Hermann Goering panzer division."

The five-month standstill on the lines in the Adriatic sector ended with the Germans starting a withdrawal between the coast and Crecchio, five miles inland. Eighth army forces moved up two miles and occupied Tollo, which is only seven and a half miles from the provincial capital of Chieti. The Nazis promptly began shelling the advance.

In the Fifth army surge north of Rome, the troops moved seven miles north to win the Bracciano area. Another element seized the town of Sutri, six miles north of Lake Bracciano.

Mines Slow Progress

The Eighth army conformed with this drive by a continued thrust northward along the east side of the Tiber, but progress there was slower due to demolitions and mines.

Bayeux is a vital rail and road point on the main lines from Cherbourg to Paris.

Friendly Motorists Give Marion Co. Boy Back from Pacific Area Quick Trip Home

The Navy gets about on land just as well as at sea, if you ask Richard Cusick, petty officer first class, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Cusick of the Davis-Gooding pike, home on a 15-day leave after 18 months service in New Guinea, Australia and other parts of the Pacific battle area. Especially when one meets up with folks who go out of their way to lend a helping hand.

Cusick, who is a sound man aboard his ship, doesn't exactly believe in fairy tales but agrees that his trip from San Francisco, Calif., to his home in 10 hours actually seems like one.

Getting his leave early on the morning of June 1, in San Francisco, he started looking about for transportation, and it was here Lady Luck teamed up with him. He traveled to Dayton by plane, making just one stop at Wichita, Kas. The short leg of the trip was yet to be negotiated. From the airport he took to the highway with a view to hitch-hiking home, and in a short time was picked up by a man and his wife from Dayton who offered transportation to their destination which was Springfield.

As the miles flew by the friendship progressed, and at Springfield the sailor and his benefactors had a dinner date. But the trio did not part company after the dinner—instead, the driver of the car decided that since the sailor hadn't been home for so long and was in somewhat of a hurry, he would see that he got there. He voluntarily drove the extra miles from Springfield to Marion county and around 10 p. m. Cusick and his benefactors arrived at his home.

"I'm above the age to be in service, and doing something like this gives me a feeling of having a part in it," the man explained to Mr. and Mrs. Cusick. "Then too," he added, "we have a son nearing 18 who will soon be in and maybe he will need someone to help him out."

Petty Officer Cusick's wife was just as surprised as the rest of the family when she learned of her husband's rapid cross-country flight. Advised by telephone that he would be home just as soon as he could arrange for transportation and that he would call her when his plans were completed, she did not expect him for several days. Mrs. Cusick and their daughter live on Curtis ct.

Richard arrived home just a few hours too late to see his brother, John, who left early that morning for Chicago to enter the U. S. Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill. However he will spend a short time with him enroute back to San Francisco, he says.

Richard, who is 22, has been in service two and one-half years. His brother, John, who graduated from Pleasant High school this year, is 18. He enlisted for service May 26.

Nazis Report Churchill Nephew Taken Prisoner

The German high command in its communique broadcast today, said that British Lt. Col. Tom Churchill, described as commandant of the island of Lussino in the Adriatic, had been taken prisoner. Berlin identified Churchill as a nephew of the British prime minister.

Maj. Randolph Churchill, son of the prime minister, is in Yugoslavia, but he was last reported on the mainland. London dispatches said nothing was known about a Tom Churchill.

Last March the German radio reported British commandos had landed on Lussino—or Lissa island—and were fighting under "a British general by the name of Churchill."

TO COAL CONSUMERS
SOLID FUELS ADMINISTRATION FOR WAR REGULATION NUMBER 21 READS IN PART AS FOLLOWS:
"Up to October 1st, 1944, no retail dealer may deliver to a consumer, and NO CONSUMER MAY RECEIVE FROM ALL SOURCES COMBINED, a tonnage of the scarcer solid fuels which exceeds 75 percent of the consumer's annual requirements, less his April 1st, 1944, inventory."
In consideration of the above order, and after a survey of the probable amount of coal available, the following dealers find that it will not be feasible to deliver during the SUMMER MONTHS more than 50 percent of consumer requirements of domestic coal. Should the available supply be increased, the dealers will be glad to increase their deliveries accordingly. Orders for season requirements that have been partly filled will be held open and the balance of the order delivered as the supply of coal permits.
PLEASE CO-OPERATE WITH YOUR REGULAR DEALER—DON'T PLACE YOUR ORDER WITH SEVERAL DEALERS. IF YOU CAN NOT GET THE KIND OF COAL YOU WANT TAKE THE NEXT BEST. DRIVERS WILL NOT UNLOAD COAL TO CONSUMERS WHO HAVE ALREADY RECEIVED THEIR QUOTA.
Do not expect too much service — remember, labor shortage permits only one man to a truck

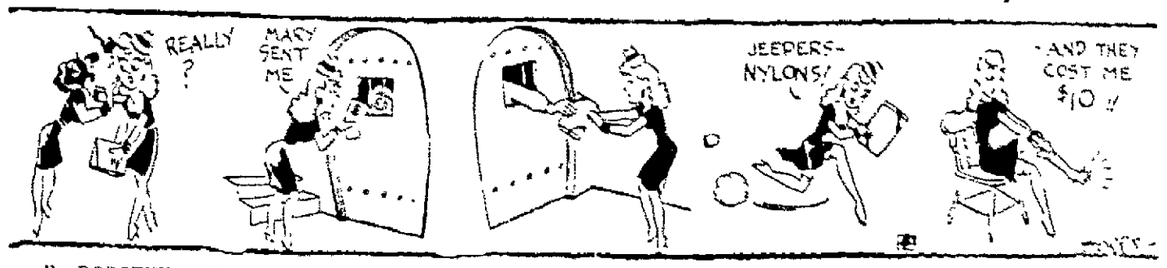
Beware of Phony Black Market Nylons!



By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Fashion Editor

"You knock three times and ask for Joe. . . ."

This isn't a flashback to the speakeasy era, but a conversation that's being repeated hundreds of times daily, with slight variations, over bridge tables and behind office doors throughout the United States today. It's the new black-market nylon patois.

Margie tells Gertrude and Gertrude tells Mamie and Mamie rushes breathlessly to an appointed spot where she eagerly spells out $7.50 to $10 a pair for those rare and coveted nylon stockings.

She daren't ask any questions and often can't allowed to open the box until the money has changed hands. When she gets home she probably finds that she has spent her week's allowance for a lock of smuggled and mended nylons, or for the same rayon stockings she could buy for $1 a pair in any store except that these are stamped "all nylon."

If you patronize the black market in the great American quest of nylons, warns Roy E. Tilles, president of one of America's largest hosiery companies, it's 100 to one you're going to get badly stung.

In the first three months of 1944 not a single pair of legitimate all-nylon stockings was produced in the United States, according to the latest report of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers. This compares with 283 dozen pairs produced during the same period in 1943. During March of this year, the association reports, 227 dozen pairs of nylon stockings with cotton or rayon welt were produced by mills using up tag-ends of nylon yarn—but these, it is safe to bet, were used exclusively as gifts to families and customers of the makers, who would not jeopardize their reputations by dealing with black-market speculators.

"When the government took over all production of nylon for war uses," says Mr Tilles, "most hosiery manufacturers had varying amounts of completed stock on hand. This was allocated to retail stores for the final days of nylon selling, and the few pairs left over were in most cases locked in the safe of the manufacturer, to be used only for gifts. I have not sold a single pair of nylons since the government order went into effect, and I am sure this is true of all other reputable manufacturers. Now even this small private gift supply has been exhausted and any so-called nylons available through the black market are pretty sure to be faked."

So watch your step! Those glamorous nylons that you get from Joe are probably pure rayon.

PASTOR STARTING 12TH YEAR HERE HONORED

Rev. and Mrs. Maag Given Reception at Church.

Members of the congregation and friends attended the reception honoring Rev. and Mrs. Henry Maag given Thursday evening in the parlors of the Prospect Street Methodist church by the W. S. C. S. The occasion marked the beginning of Rev. Maag's twelfth year as pastor of the church.

Prayer for men in the armed forces by Mrs. John Dietsch was followed by two numbers by the Harding High school quartet, and devotions by Miss Lena Chalfant.

Mrs. Golda Diehl extended a welcome and presented a gift of money to Rev. Maag on behalf of the congregation. Miss Ruth Schott extended greetings to Mrs. Maag and presented her with a gift from the M. O. H. class of which she is the teacher. Responses were given by both Rev. and Mrs. Maag. During the evening also a war bond, the gift of a friend, was presented the hostess group by Rev. Maag. Mrs. Lillian Connolly, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Ellen Kerr, sang "Dawn of Tomorrow," and Mrs. Connolly and Mrs. Geneva Reidel sang "In Thee Do I Live." Mrs. W. E. Orcutt, a guest, entertained with a group of poems and readings and to complete the program a playlet, "Evening Paper," was given by the Intermediate Fellowship group, with Julia Hughes and Junior Rowland taking the leading parts. The closing prayer was by Rev. Maag. Later there was a social hour and refreshments in charge of Mrs. Harry Wilhelm and her committee.

2,500 Attend Opening Little Grand Circuit Program

Largest Inaugural Crowd Sees Angus Volo Win Feature.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Marion Star Sports Editor

THE LARGEST opening night turnout in Marion Little Grand Circuit history—2,500 persons—filled the county fairgrounds grandstand and lined the rail along the homestretch to welcome the 1944 harness race meeting which continues for 15 nights through Saturday, June 24.

Race officials were decidedly gratified at the attendance for the opening card of what many believe will be the "Best Marion has ever had." Such a large crowd the first night presages even bigger attendances at later cards, which will have more important races with larger purses.

The card itself was one of high caliber, the races generally being nip-and-tuck affairs with only the first event, the first division of the 18 class pace for a purse of $300 being "in the bag" before the third heat was run. No records were broken last night but the crowd was highly pleased and satisfied that the horses staged such fight races with the lead changing hands many times.

Tonight, the second card of the meeting will be conducted at the county fairgrounds half-mile track and it promises to be every bit as appealing and should draw as large, if not larger crowd than last night's. Featuring the second program of the meeting will be the $1,000 Berlou Mfg. Corp. purse, a 24 class pace. It will consist of three dashes at a mile. The other two races will be $300 events, the 15 class pace and the 28 class pace. Seven horses have entered in the 15 class pace, the first race on the program, nine have been nominated for the 28 class pace while a field of a dozen is expected to start in the $1,000 feature event. Post time tonight will be 8:15.

Havens Wins

Eddie Havens, the veteran driver of Pinehurst, N. C., urged Angus Volo to victory in the highlight of last night's card, the $1,000 Marion Star closed stake for 24 class trotters. Angus Volo had to really display speed and drive to win the race, though, since it wound up no better than third in the first heat. He handily won the last two heats. Peter H., driven by Ernie Smith, was the winner of the first heat of the stake but dropped back to sixth and eighth respectively in the last two heats to wind up only fourth in the race as a whole.

Sonata, the winning horse in the first race, the first division of the 18 class pace, was triumphant in the first two heats and took it easy in the last session, finishing in place position. Heavenly Glow, which took the last heat, was second in the other two heats. Daisy May, a mare owned by George Shepple of Cincinnati and driven by Lou Huber, Jr. of the same city, rode to triumph in the second race, the second division of the 18 pace. She finished first in the first heat, second in the middle session and took the last heat.

Best time for pacers last night was 2:10½, recorded by Sonata twice, in the first and second heats. The 2:10½ registered by Angus Volo in the second heat was the best time for trotters in the Marion Star stake. The final heat in both divisions of the 18 class pace was over the 9-16 of a mile distance, the first two going the regulation mile.

Last night, the mutuels received perhaps the biggest play for any opening night in Little Grand Circuit annals. George Reverman of Columbus is head of the mutuel booths for this meeting. Biggest return of the evening was the $91 for a $2 ticket on Peter H in the first heat of the third race. He was a 40 to 1 shot. He paid $33 for place and $9 for show. The daily double, combining the winners of the second and third races, returned $149.40, another sizable sum. The Quinella, on the seventh race, paid $4.20.

Sonata Favored

Sonata, driven by Harry Short of Washington C. H., was heavily favored in all three heats of the first race. It paid $4.40, $3.20 and $2.60 in the first race and the rates dropped to $2.80, $2.40 and $2.20 in the second race. When she won the first heat of the second race, Daisy May was quoted at 5 to 1. In the second heat, Earl's King George, skippered by Earl Roush of Canton was victorious and returned $9, $4.20 and $2.40. Angus Volo paid off $5.40, $2.40 and $4.40 for his win in the second heat of the second race.

The photo finish system, operated by Henry Hagler of Xenia didn't get much of a work out last night. It wasn't used at any time to determine the winner of a race, the judges being able to tell without any difficulty. The presiding judge is Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa. and his associate is Wayne Groves of Pinehurst, N. C.

Marion's Hugh Bell, who made such a fine showing in last year's meeting, met with only ordinary success last night as he piloted Guy E. Watts in the third race. This horse finished eleventh, ninth and fourth, in that order in the Star stake.

Opening Heat

In the opening heat of the initial race last night, Earl's King George burst into the lead at the start, and maintained at the half. However, Sonata with Short at the reins staged a great final drive in the stretch to win by two lengths. In the second heat, Al Silk, driven by Lighthill was ahead at the half-mile mark but Sonata again conserving her energy until the backstretch, won with facility. In the last heat, Blackie McKinney took the lead in the start, but Sonata again started to push hard and was in front going into the homestretch. However, Heavenly Glow began to glow and won by a nose.

In the second race, the first heat, Queen Day, Mike Volo and Daisy May were in that order at the half. Mike Volo was ahead going into the stretch but Daisy May finished strong to win. Miss Wayne Grattan was ahead at the half in the second heat but Earl's King George came in with powerful strides to cop the race by three lengths. Daisy May won the showdown race after leading all the way.

McDuff, driven by Sep Palin of Indianapolis was ahead at the half in the first heat of the Star trot and led going into the stretch. However, Peter H, the long shot, came up on the outside to win by a nose. Angus Volo led at the halfway post in the second heat and was ahead going into the final turn. Kentucky Colonel, full brother of Greyhound, made a great bid in the stretch but couldn't overtake the fleeting Volomite-sired horse. Peter H looked as if he might again triumph in the third heat, being in the lead at the start and half. However, Angus Volo took the lead in the last quarter and won.

Race Sidelights for Opening Card

A few sidelights of last night's opening card of the Little Grand Circuit harness race meeting:

Mr. Harness Racing himself, "Doc" Parshall, was among the interested spectators at last night's races. And he was probably one of the most inconspicuous persons in the stands. He parked himself in the top row of the grand stand in a relatively secluded spot. The good Dr. has given up harness race driving for the duration and has turned to starting to maintain a semi-active contact with the sport....Outrider for all races last night was Russell Wickersham, son of Louis Wickersham, well known Marion county auctioneer and horse breeder. Russell was a member of the Claridon county championship basketball team last winter.

Wayne Groves, associate judge at the meeting, is a former Marion resident....The concessions underneath the fairground grandstand were extremely popular places last night. In charge of the concessions for the meet is the Y's Men's Service club, whose head in Don Williamson....Among the spectators at the opening card was Jolly Joe Neville, well-known Delaware horseman who has great plans for the Delaware county track.....Vic Fleming, another famous driver of the old school, won't be here for this year's meeting, it was learned last night. Fleming's horses are not yet ready for the strains and stresses of Little Grand Circuit competition.

Steve Phillips, starter for the Marion meet, will also start the Hambletonian this year....Instead of Clint Hodgins as reported earlier this week, Gabe Cartnell of Hanover was the top driver in last year's Marion meet, although Hodgins rode the most winners across the finish wire. Cartnell rates the title because his over-all record last year was better than Hodgins. The Hanover reinsman booting in more second and third place horses. Hodgins won't be in Marion for the meet this season since he is busy on the Batavia, Long Island track....He had 19 winners last year, Cartnell 17 and Hugh Bell of Marion 16.

MIDDLETOWN SOX 1 GAME OUT OF FIRST

Middletown's Red Sox approached within one game of first place in the Ohio State league by sweeping a double-header with the Zanesville Dodgers on the Middletown diamond last night. The Sox copped the opener, 2 to 1 and snared the nightcap, 6 to 3. This gives Middletown 19 wins and 14 losses as compared to Newark's 20-13 record. The twin loss dropped Zanesville to fifth place, only a game ahead of Marion's last place Cubs. Marion and Newark were idle last night.

Last night's Ohio State league line scores:

All-Star Contest To Start Monday for Marion Fans

The Star is announcing the start Monday of a contest for Marion baseball fans to select a team for the Ohio State league all-star game to be held July 12 in the city whose team is leading the league July 1.

Entry blanks for the contest will be furnished interested fans next week and when these are filled out, should be mailed to The Star on North State street. Voting for the all-star team in each city will end by June 28 since Frank M. Colley, Ohio State league president has set June 30 as the deadline for selections to come into his office.

Any person in Marion and vicinity is eligible to file selections for the team. Two season tickets will the awarded to the fan in each city whose selections tally most closely with the final selections for the team. One ticket will be given to the runner up in each city.

Fans will be asked to choose five infielders, four outfielders, two catchers and four pitchers. This will be the official all-star team. However, if any of those players selected are members of the host team which will be pacing the league July 1, they will be replaced by the runners up in the balloting. No manager will be selected by the fans since it has been decided by the league office that the pilot of the team which is in second place July 1 will manage the all-star squad.

The all-star game is being co-sponsored by the league management and the league chapter of the baseball writers' association. The chapter finished organization recently with Tom Keys, sports editor of the Zanesville Times-Recorder elected president.

REDS AND HOME RUN MAY SPELL DOWNFALL OF CARDS, YANKEES

Walters Hands St. Louis Third Straight Loss as He Bests Max Lanier.

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Leave it to Bucky Walters and the Cincinnati Reds will ruin the St. Louis Cardinals' dreams of a third straight National league pennant.

Leave it to the home run, and the New York Yankees will wind up in the American league's also-ran column.

These are two strange developments produced in the major leagues by a third wartime season.

Up to 1944 Walters had beaten St. Louis only 18 times in 42 starts, but now he has handed them three straight setbacks by scores of 1-0, 2-0 and 2-1. Not until the ninth frame of last night's 2-1 tilt in Cincinnati were the Cards able to break a string of 30 scoreless innings against Bucky's effective tossing. Walters thus became the first big league hurler to notch his ninth victory.

The top-ranking National league hurlers clashed as Walters tangled with Max Lanier, and Billy Southworth followed with a second ace, George Munger, in relief but the Cincy No. 1 man took the nod on two unearned runs.

Since 1935 the Yankees have been home run kings of the Hartridge loop, but the blow that built the big stadium in the Bronx has been backfiring against the world champs. In 42 games only 20 Yanks have homered, against 27 by the opposition, the latest being Roy Partee's first round tripper of the season in the last of the ninth yesterday to give Boston an 8-7 twilight edge.

Washington pulled out of the cellar on George Myatt's triple scoring Johnny Sullivan and Milo Candini in the 11th for a 7-5 margin over Philadelphia after the A's had tied with three in the ninth.

Connie Mack's men tumbled all the way into the basement when Cleveland bunched three hits in the fifth to down the St. Louis Browns, 4-3, in a night game. Doubles by Mike Rocco and Roy Cullenbine, who is setting the American league on fire with his slugging feats, provided the winning margin over Jack Kramer who allowed but six hits. The Detroit-Chicago game was postponed because of rain.

Shortstop Eddie Stanky, recently acquired from the Cubs, bowed in as Brooklyn shortstop to steady the Dodger infield in a double triumph over the Phils, 6-3 and 8-1.

Bill Voiselle grabbed his sixth victory in 13 starts as the New York Giants shaded Boston, 6-4, and Chicago rioted with eight runs in the second but had to keep pressing to trim Pittsburgh, 10-6.

Three Games Launch Season in Commercial Softball Loo

The Commercial softball league opened its season last night with three games results of which were Sandwich Bar 18, DeMolay 0, Waldo 11, Marion Metal Products 4, and Isaly Dairy 2, Co. M of the Ohio State Guard 0. The Sandwich Bar-DeMolay game was played on the Garfield park diamond, the Metal Products-Waldo tilt at McKinley park and the Co. M-Isaly game at Lincoln park.

Coxie Weiss, softball veteran, hurler two-hit ball as Sandwich Bar won as expected from DeMolay, but by a much more overwhelming margin than was predicted. Sandwich Bar, made up of players last year on the championship Coca-Cola team, got to Pitcher Kenny Spear of DeMolay for six runs in the first inning on four hits and two bases on balls. Eight runs were racked by the victors in the fourth on six hits, including a double by Watt Merchant and triple by Gorby. Kenny Somerlot, catcher, led the Bar attack with three hits in four plate trips.

Waldo posted three runs in the third stanza and six in the fourth as they romped over Marion Metal Products. Two hits were made by the Waldoans in the third five in the fourth. Right Fi Stratton and Second Base Salyer each got two hits to the Waldo batting offensive. third baseman, belted out two in three trips to lead the M Products outfit.

Toledo Mud Hens Meet Brews in Two Tonight

By The Associated Press

John Whitehead and Earl Jones of the Toledo pitching corps, who have been nominated to cool off the blazing Milwaukee Brewers in a double bill tonight, will do well to handle outfielder Herschel Martin with care.

For the big Brewer slugger will be quite annoying at the plate if he maintains last night's hitting mood. He clouted his sixth home run in the third inning with the bases loaded, then slammed two singles and a double to drive in a total of seven runs as Milwaukee thumped Louisville 13 to 3 for its 11th straight American association victory.

AL SMITH DEFEATS BROWNS FOR THIRD

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, June 9—Al Smith beat the Browns last night for the first time since August, 1942, to even his season record at 3 games won and 3 lost.

The Cleveland Indians hurler who won 17 and lost seven last year overcame his St. Louis jinx long enough to receive credit for the 4 to 3 victory. Then, with two Brownie runs scored on four consecutive singles in the sixth inning Manager Lou Boudreau called on Joe Heving to keep Smitty's name in the winning column.

An error by Boudreau set the stage for the Browns' first run in the opening inning when he let Don Gutteridge's grounder get by him. The St. Louis infielder scored on George McQuinn's double and a long fly by Mark Christman.

The Tribe evened the score in the third, rookie catcher Jim McDonnell rounding the bases on his own single, Mark Christman's error, a sacrifice and Mickey Rocco's high fly.

Boureau, Rocco and Roy Cullenbine doubled in the fifth to score three runs after Smith walked. The St. Louis sixth-inning pair of tallies weren't enough to offset this lead.

Walters a Headache to St. Louis Cards

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 9—The St. Louis Cardinals may win the National league pennant but not through the aid and comfort of Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds.

Bucky has given them just one run in 31 innings for three straight victories, and last night he would have made it three straight shutouts if he could have gotten past the ninth inning.

The final score was Cincinnati 2, St. Louis 1. Bucky's previous efforts against the Cards resulted in a 1-0 decision in 13 innings and 2-0 in nine.

ANYTHING —About— SPORTS

By Charles Elliott

THE appointment of Joe Riccardi as head football and basketball coach at Bucyrus High school fills the last remaining vacancy in the coaching staffs of North Central Ohio conference athletic teams. For a time last winter and this spring, as many as three vacancies existed simultaneously. Some this year all N. C. O. schools excepting Shelby were temporarily without a mentor in either football and basketball.

Riccardi has a rough assignment on his hands in being successor to amicable Nick Wasylik at the Bucyrus post. Nick last winter was commissioned an ensign in the Navy after three years of service. Wasylik, a former Ohio State grid star, did not strike up many pennants on the Bucyrus High scroll but his teams gained the reputation of being scrappy and dangerous, especially for teams with little aspirations.

Bucyrus teams have as a rule been undermanned in comparison with such "giant" schools as Marion Harding and Ashland. So has Shelby and to some extent, Galion. That's the reason, as has been pointed out in sundry instances, why Shelby and Bucyrus are joining another league composed of schools of virtually equal enrollment. This new league is scheduled to start in the fall of 1945. But many observers think it will be sooner.

INSIDE PEEKS

A FEW inside peeks at Ohio State leaguers:

Bill Morneweg, who seems to have cinched the regular center field berth on the Marion team for the time being, is from Evansville, Ind. He is 20 years old, stands 5 feet and 11 and weighs 175 pounds . . . Charley Barney, first baseman acquired from Lima in a trade for Third Baseman Bob Boddy, is only 17. He's a slightly corpulent lad with his 188 pounds on a 5 foot 10 inch frame . . . A pitcher on the Marion team who has not as yet seen any mound duty is Gene Saveo, 17-year older from North Baltimore, O. . . . Saveo is a year older than Pitcher Stan Ostrowski. Saveo was born July 8, 1926. Manager Grover Hartley, on the advice of Bert Curtis, local veteran baseballer who umpired a few games at Lincoln park this year, is giving Mickey Ferrin, Marion amateur star, a tryout with the Cubs. The tryout will be given Saturday at the park, for no workouts were scheduled for yesterday or today . . . Hartley thought it best to give the boys a rest after over a month of continual play . . . Hartley has to cut his squad to 15 men by next Thursday, June 15. The deadline for reducing the squad limit to 15 men was originally set for May 23 but was postponed for three weeks because of "generally unsettled conditions." Newark's Moundsmen evidently don't believe in large squads, at least for road trips. They brought only 14 players along for the single game with Marion Wednesday night . . . Warren Blunt, Marion outfielder, holds an honorable discharge from the Army. He was through many of the South Pacific campaigns . . . Blunt was one of the boys who favorably impressed Jack Sheehan, Chicago Cub scout, when he was here last week for the holiday series with the Lima Red Birds . . . Randy "Lefty" Edwards was president of his senior class in high school at Sulphur Springs, N. Y., this year. He completed his school work before he came to Marion early in May and received enough credits for graduation . . . Grover Hartley doesn't confine his duties as general manager of the Marion team to directing the club from the bench . . . Every once in a while you can find him working on the Lincoln park diamond . . . There's still a lot to be done before the diamond can be said to be in tip-top shape. A fielder still has to render a silent prayer when a hot ground ball comes his way . . . It's just as likely as not to bounce right up in his kisser.

"SQUEAKY" BECOMES BIG NOISE

WILLIAM "Squeaky Tomlinson, second baseman for the Springfield Giants, is noted for his fine fielding, both in Ohio State league and sandlot circles. While playing with an independent team in South Carolina, Tomlinson ran up the praiseworthy feat of accepting 65 chances in succession without an error. He was only 15 years old when he won a berth on a Sumter, S. C., team with teammates and opponents 20 years of age or older. He's only 17 but is really something to watch cavorting around second base for the Giants, who come here Sunday for a doubleheader at Lincoln park.

Harry Springer, skyscraping hurler for the Zanesville Dodgers, pitched only one year of high school baseball in New York, but was picked on the all-scholastic team by the Brooklyn Eagles last year. He was one of the outstanding high school chuckers in the Metropolitan area, and one of the best young basketball players in the section. He's had some trouble in getting under way for the Dodgers, being wild as a march hare, but's he starting to find himself and can be looked for to do some mighty good hurling for the Dodgers of Jack Knight.

Panther and Jones Win in Tag Team Match

The Black Panther and Rufus Jones were victors over Angelo Martinelli and Irish McGee in a tag team match in a wrestling program at the Armory last night. Angelo dispensed with Rufus Jones in 16 minutes with a body slam and press. The Panther succumbed in five minutes to Angelo's hammer lock. Coming back, the Panther brought Angelo down in eight minutes with a head bunt and jack knife. Within the next four minutes McGee was put out by the Panther with a head bunt and jack knife. Both McGee and Angelo were disqualified by the referee for stepping on their opponent's throats, giving the Panther and Jones two falls, McGee and Angelo, one fall.

Steve Nenoff came out on top in a one-hour two-fall tussle. Nenoff took the first from Earl Malone, with a half-crab hold in 19 minutes. Malone then won a fall from Nenoff in 10 minutes with a full crab hold. Nenoff's second fall was won in five minutes by applying another crab hold.

202 Enroll in Y Free Swim Classes

Enthusiastic response has resulted from announcement of free "learn to swim" classes for boys and girls in the fifth and sixth grades being held at the Y. M. C. A. Marion Mewhorter, boys work director said today. (An enrollment of 202 has been reached and and applications are still coming in. The boys' class now has a total of 88, while 114 girls have enrolled. Application cards are still being received at the Y. M. other boys and girls wish to join the classes they may apply at the Y M.C.A. within the next few days. First activities include testing and assignment to classes according to swimming ability. Five classes are now being taught, Mewhorter said that 12 to 15 more members are expected to join both boys' and girls' classes.

Boys attend classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and girls come on Tuesday and Friday. Instruction is given by trained swimming teachers. The entire course will consist of six lessons.

Increased interest in women's swimming classes has merited a change in schedule from one class a week to two classes, Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Women 17 years old and older who are interested in joining classes may apply at the Y. M. C. A. Instruction is given in accordance with individual ability and rudiments of swimming as well as advanced training will be offered.

A rearranged summer schedule for other events at the Y will be announced within the next few days, Mr. Mewhorter said.

TRUCK LEAVES ROAD

Manford Ross of Sciotoville, O., escaped without injury this morning when the truck which he was driving early Thursday morning on Route 98 near Waldo left the road and plowed through a section of fence. Ross fell asleep while driving, but managed to maneuver the vehicle back to the pavement, according to state highway patrolmen. The accident occurred about 12:15 a. m. about four miles north of Waldo. Property damage was estimated at $100.

LOCAL WANT AD RATES

	1 Time	2 Times	6 Times
Three lines	30c	45c	$1.20
Each extra line	11c	24c	42c

Minimum charge three lines.

Ads not ordered for consecutive insertions will be charged at the one time rate each time.

In figuring ads allow five 6-letter words to a line.

Charged ads in Marion and Marion rural routes only will be received by telephone.

Ads ordered for three or six days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Errors in want ads will be corrected and an extra insertion given only when notification is made before the second insertion.

The publisher reserves the right to edit or reject any ads deemed objectionable.

Closing time for transient classified advertisements is 9:30 a. m. the day of publication.

EYEWITNESS

Germans said they planted all over the countryside.

The first Frenchman I met after landing had borrowed enough gasoline from the Germans for his motorcycle to leave his work on a German gun emplacement and join the allies. An ex-soldier in the French army, he said the allied naval and air assault preceding the landings shook the whole countryside like an earthquake.

"Alas," he said, "we had wine saved to greet the allies, but now it is gone. Pouf—bombs and wine do not mix. Veree sad."

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Marion, State of Ohio until 12 o'clock noon the 1st day of July, 1944, for the purchase of bonds of the said City, in the aggregate sum of $35,000.00, dated the 1st day of January, 1944. Said bonds will be in the denominations of $1750.00 and will draw interest at the rate of three per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons to be attached to said bonds. Anyone desiring to do so may present a bid or bids for said bonds based on their bearing a different rate of interest than that hereinbefore specified, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one quarter of one per cent of multiples thereof. Said bonds will be due and payable as follows:

No. 1—July 1, 1945.
No. 2—January 1, 1946.
No. 3—July 1, 1946.
No. 4—January 1, 1947.
No. 5—July 1, 1947.
No. 6—January 1, 1948.
No. 7—July 1, 1948.
No. 8—January 1, 1949.
No. 9—July 1, 1949.
No. 10—January 1, 1950.
No. 11—July 1, 1950.
No. 12—January 1, 1951.
No. 13—July 1, 1951.
No. 14—January 1, 1952.
No. 15—July 1, 1952.
No. 16—January 1, 1953.
No. 17—July 1, 1953.
No. 18—January 1, 1954.
No. 19—July 1, 1954.
No. 20—January 1, 1955.

Any and all said bonds are subject to redemption at any interest paying period at par and accrued interest.

The said bonds are issued for the purpose of remodeling and enlarging the Marion City Hospital and the purchase of equipment therefore and under authority of the laws of Ohio and the Uniform Bond Act and under and in accordance with Ordinance No. 4619 of said City entitled, "Ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds of the City of Marion, Ohio for the purpose of remodeling and enlarging the Marion City Hospital and the purchase of equipment therefore and to retire notes heretofore issued for said purpose," passed on the 14th day of December, 1943.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder for not less than the face value thereof and accrued interest.

All bids must state the number of bonds bid for and the gross amount of bids and accrued interest to date of delivery. All bids to be accompanied by a certified check payable to the city for $500.00 upon condition that said bid is accepted. The bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth, within thirty days from the time of award, said bonds to be forfeited or check may be retained by the city if said condition is not fulfilled.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed: "Bids for remodeling and enlarging Marion City Hospital."

MARKET MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Selective Demand Still Favors Low-Priced Motor Issues.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 9—Selective demand, mainly for low-priced motors and other stocks with good peace ratings, gave the market a moderately pleasing appearance today although many leaders continued to loiter.

Earnings and dividends, actual and prospective, were helpful but brokerage customers generally, while bullish on the invasion, inclined to hold aloof in view of official warnings on over-optimism.

Ahead most of the time were General Gas & Electric "A" (at a 1944 peak), Packard, Sinclair Oil, Schenley, General Motors and Boeing. Slipping tendencies were shown by Willys-Overland, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Deere, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Du Pont and U. S. Rubber.

LATE PROFIT TAKING CUTS WHEAT PRICES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 9—Late profit taking and hedging sales erased most of the gains made by wheat futures in quiet trading today. A brief period of short covering had boosted wheat prices almost a cent a bushel but the market was unsettled and offerings on the advance were heavy.

Rye prices advanced in sympathy with wheat, then fell back just as quickly when wheat turned. Trade in the rye pit was nervous in tone, reflecting reports distillers opposed its use in industrial alcohol manufacture because of increased production costs.

Bricker To Be on Radio Tonight and Tomorrow

NEW YORK, June 9—Kate Smith and her variety show on CBS will broadcast in competition to Jack Benney of NBC when she returns from vacation Sept. 17. Decision to move her broadcast to Sunday nights at 7 was announced simultaneously with her summer departure at 8 tonight from the Friday spot she has occupied so long.

Based on what service men overseas would like to hear, NBC at 8:30 tonight is putting on a special, "You Asked for It," in which the unusual is scheduled from Lew Lehr, Clem McCarthy, Fred Waring and others.

Broadcasts tonight: 10:45 Gov. John W. Bricker on "The Spirit in Which We Fight."

Saturday programs: CBS—8:15 People's Platform, debate, Gov. John W. Bricker and Gov. Broughton of North Carolina on "Issues of the Presidential Campaign."

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THE uneasiness which I had detected in Hugh's face vanished at my assurance that I could memorize, without a mistake, the data which he was preparing to give to me. He was counting on my memory to transmit correctly to my father on the next day every syllable, letter, figure and punctuation mark without having a single written character to guide me.

"All right," he said. "Let's start. No! Wait a second!"

He turned to Lee Chow, leaning back against his pollows but with his fine, sensitive face keenly alert.

Wants Checking

"Will you keep tab on me, Lee Chow?" he said, "and will you stop me, if I turn the wrong switch?"

"I do not think you will make any error," his Chinese friend answered, "but I will do as you ask."

"Very well, then, we will begin," Hugh said. "Ready?"

His voice had an insistent upward inflection, and I realized that his nerves were tensed with the responsibility resting upon him of the vital secret he was carrying.

"All ready," I told him with purposeful placidity.

"Then we'll start with Number 1," he began, and forthwith launched into a series of letters and numbers, together with descriptions of certain geometrical figures, that made me wonder if I had over-estimated my own powers.

Terrific Task

Fortunately each set was fairly short, but long before I reached the last, Number 14, and especially with the "true and false" sets of Number 5, I realized that never in my life had I been confronted with such a test as memorizing these symbols in the short time alloted to me for the task.

"Don't ever belittle your own memory again!" I exclaimed when Hugh had finished without a single correction from Lee Chow.

He gave me an intent look that had something quizzical in it.

"Do you realize that we are expecting you to do in a few minutes what Lee Chow and I practiced for months?" he asked. "We had written symbols at first, and we made ourselves letter-perfect in them by weeks of intensive drill, for we knew the time would come when we would have to destroy them. After that hour, I repeated them to Lee Chow whenever we were alone together. Sometimes I had to murmur them prison-fashion from the side of my mouth when every one else was asleep."

Sinister Thoughts

There was something in his voice as he spoke the last words, something that I knew was involuntary, brought from the depths of memory, but which chilled me with a sudden realization of sinister, cruel memories shared by my old friends. Had Hugh and Lee Chow been prisoners, caught in the awful yellow tidal wave of the Pacific for part of the time during which we had heard nothing concerning them?

"Will you please let me look at your notes?" Hugh asked, effectually ending my journey into conjecture, and when I had handed them to him, he looked them over meticulously, with only one comment,—an approving "Wonderfully legible!".

Then he looked over at Lee Chow.

"What do you think, old friend," he asked, "of keeping these notes down here until the Chief has filed away, in his secret, bomb-proof archives, the copy which his daughter will write down for him as soon as he provides the opportunity?"

"It is a very good idea," the Chinese said. "This place appears to be safe from discovery, we can keep the notes upon our persons, and, if necessary, we can burn them in that metal ash receiver in the space of a minute."

"Then we will keep them here," Hugh decided, handing the notebook back to me. "And now," he added, "Lee Chow and I will go into the silence, while you concentrate on your notes.

"I dare not let you take these beyond this door," he went on, "so you will have to do your studying of them down here. And when you have finished, please take out the notes—I see the pages are loose leaf—and give them to me."

"Of course," I said a bit absently, for I was wild to get at my task. "I think I will sit at the desk while I study these. And when I have finished, I shall want to go over them aloud, while you check for errors."

"Certainly," he said as he put the desk chair in place and invested me in it.

Then I was off in a concentration of my memory powers such as I never had known before.

At the end of half an hour I looked up, with a feeling of relief—and of a task accomplished—which left me slightly giddy.

"May I say my lesson, now, Teacher?" I asked.

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Vitamin B Deficiency

VITAMIN B is the most puzzling of all the vitamins. In the first place it is the most complex chemically. Whereas up to 1919 we thought it was a single and fairly simple structure, it now is known to be composed of many elements, some of which have been identified chemically — such as thiamine, riboflavin, nicotinic acid, pyridoxine and pantothenic acid and each plays its own role in nutrition, and each, if it is absent, allows of a different sort of disease condition to appear—neuritis or pellagra, or sore mouth as the case may be.

We know that Vitamin B is absolutely necessary for life, and adults as well as children need some of it every day. Also the body cannot synthesize it, but must have it supplied in the food. In this it differs from some of the other vitamins. Vitamin D is necessary in young life, but adults get along with very little. Also the body can synthesize Vitamin D from the action of sunshine on the skin. If you get some Vitamin C every once in a while you do all right, not necessarily all the time.

Naturally with such a very necessary article nearly all foods contain it, and it would hardly be possible for a person to eat any kind of a mixed diet without obtaining a good daily supply. But sometimes something goes wrong so that the Vitamin B in the food is not utilized.

As my regular readers know I regard wholesale dosing with vitamin capsules and extracts as foolish and unnecessary. Not that I have any doubts about the absolute necessity of getting the vitamins, but I prefer Nature's way of providing them and that is in the food. Another of my beliefs is that I do not see that the vitamin deficiencies are so frequent that extra preventive care should be instituted. But in the case of Vitamin B, I am willing to admit that circumstances occasionally arise when some minor forms of deficiency occur even when the vitamin is present in the food.

One of these, for instance, is diabetic neuritis. We know that one definite entity ascribable to Vitamin B deficiency is neuritis. Typically it is the form known as beri-beri found mostly in the Orient in countries where rice is the exclusive article of diet and where the only Vitamin B containing part of the rice, the shell, is removed by milling because that suits the taste of the populace better. But there are some forms of neuritis found in all countries, such as alcoholic neuritis, which may be due to Vitamin B deficiency because the alcoholic gets his calories from his alcohol and eats very little food rich in Vitamin B.

In diabetic neuritis another factor operates. It is known that Vitamin B operates particularly with carbohydrate nutrition — making the sugars and starches available for use by the cells. And we know that diabetes is essentially a profound disturbance of carbohydrate utilization. So it is quite possible that in diabetes the body cannot use Vitamin B even when it is present. And diabetic neuritis therefore responds to the use of large amounts of concentrated Vitamin B in assimilable form.

Again Vitamin B is often recommended for fatigue and loss of appetite. Undoubtedly it does control appetite and is valuable in regulating the bowels and hence preventing constipation. The spectacle, however, of thousands of people dosing themselves with Vitamin B tablets to help that tired feeling is not one that appeals to a real scientist.

Under certain circumstances the use of Vitamin B for fatigue is more scientific. Particularly I refer to life in the tropics. Vitamin B is readily excreted in the perspiration so the resident of the tropics may lose his Vitamin B so fast in the perspiration that he needs a more abundant supply than his neighbor of the temperate zones. Certainly the effect of a tropical climate on producing that tired feeling gives considerable support to this view.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. M. H.: How much water should a person 70 years old drink? I have heard that five glasses is all one should have. Sometimes I drink eight, but do not want to injure my health.

Answer: Plenty of water never injured anybody's health. The best doctor to consult about it is Dr. Thirst. He orders more sometimes—say in the summer—than at other times. It is impossible to force too much water into the system. Plenty of it flushes the kidneys, promotes nutrition and is generally helpful. And it isn't rationed.

C. R.:—Do you think eating raw carrots or drinking carrot juice every day will help eyesight?

Answer: Carrot juice and carrots contain a large amount of Vitamin A which prevents night-blindness. Their use presumably makes one see better at night. Aviators are fed a daily, or rather nightly, allowance. But don't overdo it or you'll turn yellow.

Bucyrus Man Believed on Lost U. S. Carrier

BUCYRUS, June 9—One Bucyrian, Richard Oborn, petty officer, second class, believed to have been aboard the escort carrier Block Island, which was announced as sunk in the Atlantic, this week. No news of Oborn has been received by Bucyrus relatives, although war department releases have announced that next of kin of those lost aboard the carrier have been notified.

The sinking was reported to have occurred in May in the Atlantic, the first carrier to be lost in that theater of operations.

WITH THE AIRFIELD IN WILD CONFUSION JOHNNY TAKES OFF...
JOHNNY'S NUTS! NOW THAT HE'S TOOK OFF, WHAT'S HE GONNA DO?
NEVER MIND THAT! OUR JOBS TO GET THAT BOMBER!
Y'KNOW...A GUY COULD GET WRACKED NERVES FROM THIS!
THE HATCH IS OPEN! HOPE THERE'S NOBODY HOME!

I'VE ALWAYS THOUGHT THERE'S A MYSTERY 'BOUT HARD CIDER COLLINS AND HIS WILD HAY.
WILD HAY'S NOT WORTH MUCH. AFTER PAYING THE FREIGHT TO BUCKEYVILLE HE'D HAVE MIGHTY LITTLE PROFIT LEFT.
STILL, HE ALWAYS HAD A POCKETFUL OF CASH AN' ALL HE EVER SOLD WAS WILD HAY.
